

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: enter your name on a website

SIM-1179501 - May 12, 2012, 6:21 pm

On my site I wanted to make it so before a user entered the page it there would be a pop up asking for their name, after that somewhere in the page I could type something and it would say in the page what they typed in.

for exampleCode 1) Enter your name here: <name>

2) welcome to my site <name>I've seen this done before But I don't remember the site so I cant get the source. Does anyone know the html code for this?

Webmasters - May 12, 2012, 6:24 pm

What are you wanting their name to do?

Just entering it is pointless..

What you want it to do once entered?

raxe - May 12, 2012, 6:51 pm

Might be for a username script.

Just use PHP sessions to store their name..

Pop up name > store name > stay in session > log out

Isn't hard for a script, good luck!

SIM-1179501 - May 13, 2012, 5:04 am

I would want it to appear in the text somewhere

dotcomdog - April 9, 2013, 4:22 pm

Just dont do it then ok got it noob?

Duncanrp - April 9, 2013, 7:30 pm

You could just use a session variable so e.g.

PHP Code

```
<?php
$_SESSION['name'] = your input...
```

Then whenever you want to refer to it you just go like so.

PHP Code

```
<?php
Welcome, <?php echo $_SESSION['name']; ?>
```

Kawop - April 9, 2013, 9:50 pm

(Apr 9, 2013 07:30 PM)Duncanrp Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You could just use a session variable so e.g.

PHP Code

```
<?php
$_SESSION['name'] = your input...
```

Then whenever you want to refer to it you just go like so.

PHP Code

```
<?php
Welcome, <?php echo $_SESSION['name']; ?>
```

Don't forgot to type PHP Code

```
<?php
session_start in the strictly top of you *.php ?
```

[Johnny] - April 9, 2013, 11:06 pm

Or you can do it like this:

PHP Code

```
<?php
$_POST['name'];
if(isset($_POST['submit']))
{
$name=$_POST['name'];
echo($name);
}
?>
```

Hack3rzGod - April 10, 2013, 1:57 am

If you want this on a single page use

JScript::

Head Area

Code <script>

```
var name=prompt("What Is Your Name?","Your Name"); </script>
```

Body Area

Code <script>

```
document.writeln("Welcome " + name);
</script>
```

else use PHP + Javascript save the name in a session using post or get method and use on multiple page.