Thread: Thread Creation Permissions Restricted

Omniscient - May 19, 2012, 3:36 pm

In an effort to prevent spam by ban evaders trying to monetize HF I've altered the permissions in certain forums.

Regular registered members can no longer create threads in the following sections:

Monetizing Techniques
Referrals
Free Money Making Ebooks
Hacking Tools and Programs
Remote Administration Tools
Keyloggers
Free Services and Giveaways

I may add more to the list as well.

Member can still post replies but thread creation is now restricted to l33t/ub3r/staff/mentors only.

If I ban you from HF be sure that I'm going to go all out to cleanse your presence from HF no matter what I have to do.

BTW the "no post to pm" and "no pm for download" are coming soon. Those rules are going to seal the deal imho to prevent LQP and spam.

These measures also assist in prevention members being infected by malware, rats, and viruses.

Enjoy.

Great, great, fantastic rule Omniscient.
Thank god.

Thank you so much. This will help a ton.

Foco - May 19, 2012, 3:39 pm

hmm I really don't agree with this. I just saw a good post from a regular member here
<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2456326>

I really think it should be based on post count or or time registered. After all the monetizing section is for open discussion (I still see to many post/pm threads)

I definitely agree with the free giveaway section because to many regular members spam surveys or just use that to get rep, but I don't agree with the monetizing section.
but it is your forum anyway

Zurch - May 19, 2012, 3:39 pm

I'm a normal user and i find this helpful already.

CAPiIX - May 19, 2012, 3:39 pm

Really looking forward to see the "Post & PM me" threads go away.

Tangy - May 19, 2012, 3:40 pm

Eh, thats quite a lot of forums to exclude regular members from posting threads in. Oh well, I guess its for the best

Nostre - May 19, 2012, 3:40 pm

You should also add 'Free Ebook Hacking Tutorials' to the list.

I've seen new members create threads with referral links, and we will have to move it to the correct section.

So it would be easy for them to gain access to the "Referrals section".

JavaSun - May 19, 2012, 3:41 pm

I disagree, some sections should still be allowed, like RAT and tools.

Draw - May 19, 2012, 3:43 pm

Good to hear the post and pm and post for download ones are going.
That's a lot of sections blocked for regular members.

Mr Kewl - May 19, 2012, 3:44 pm

And those posts will now go in Lounge.

Bridge - May 19, 2012, 3:44 pm

Thank you, I have been keeping an eye on a few people that seem to fit ban evaders. After thinking about it, it is just to easy to come on here and scam people.
You could easily make thousands with the right technique..

I am very excited to see the heightened measures regarding LQP and Spam from normal members. I especially look forward to see the ban on the "Post and PM for download". You are doing a great job and this will surely decrease the amount of normal members trying to monetize and spam the site.

eg warrior forum is going All subscription based. Regular members won't be able to do jack shit. And there membership is fucking expensive

Scooter - May 19, 2012, 4:11 pm

Honestly, I can't say that I agree in the least with this rule. Look at it this way: Many normal members post in the aforementioned forums in order to gain reputation. You need reputation to enter the marketplace. Normal members sell stuff in the marketplace and then possibly buy I33t. We (HackForums) are limiting a member's desire to contribute. I'm sure many normal members have made legitimate & successful threads in those forums, but now cannot contribute as well as they'd like to.

More importantly, what if a member can't afford to pay $18.99 or is too young to have a Paypal? Don't tell me that the member should get someone to upgrade them, because generous individuals willing to upgrade others are few and far between.

Expect to see an increase in fraudulent donations. Regarding the "LQP" by normal members in those sections – the "no post to pm" that is soon to come should lower the LQP. As for member security, people should scan their files before downloading... There are many high quality normal members. I don't intend to be rude, but I'm not a fan of new legislation denying basic abilities (i.e posting) to normal members.

EDIT: Here we go: <https://i.imgur.com/UEpQa.jpg>. I'm suspecting that's a multi-accounter, but even if it wasn't, expect to see a lot of those threads. People can't post in the proper section, so it'll go to the lounge.

Now they can't.

Personally I don't see the loss in that. If anything I might create a specific section for regular members to create threads that are crap.

Things happen for a reason imho. This weekend it's opened my eyes to exactly what I can use Prestige for. I wasn't 100% before on it's usage but I am now.

Quote:I wanted to upgrade either way, but that is alot restriction at once. No more posts in RAT section? I don't get that change.

It's a pitfall of how MyBB works actually. I'd prefer to leave RATs as it was but it's a subforum with perms of the parent forum. I may reset it's permissions or even just move it for now. Still considering my options. A lot is going on right now. Busy day indeed.

Quote:I think it's a little unfair to basically generalise (in a sense) that all regular members are either A) LQ

I didn't make that claim. But fact is most ban evaders and spammers are new members. And this is more about sections that attract ban evaders, spammers, and those looking to infect members.

Quote:Yea seriously. What the hell is up with that?

No other forum acts like that.

Seriously it's not the intention of this rule. And again..I'm going to finish my Prestige formula, create a restriction plugin, and apply it to the site. HF is not a place where I want only upgraded members to benefit from the community. It's never been a closed forum and I hope it never will be.

Quote:eg warrior forum is going All subscription based. Regular members won't be able to do jack shit. And there membership is fucking expensive

I really don't want that option but I realize at some point it actually MIGHT benefit the community. But let's not get into that. Please I don't want alarm by members that this move is an attempt to close the site off to paid members only. It's seriously not the intent. This is about thread creation by spammers using HF to monetize every chance they get and infect members.

Cool system Omni!! could be wrong but creating features based on prestige could increase LQ massively. The prestige formula is based on data that is available for everyone to see. If you're good at math, you can discover the formula in 30 minutes by comparing the prestige of different members and their data. And after that, it's all about exploiting the formula to get as much prestige as you can.

Cause they don't like to do free giveaways. ;)

God damn, this is one sexy update Omni I love this. :)

Au Jus Demon - May 19, 2012, 5:36 pm

The prestige formula is based on data that is available for everyone to see. If you're good at math, you can discover the formula in 30 minutes by comparing the prestige of different members and their data. And after that, it's all about exploiting the formula to get as much prestige as you can.

There's an unlimited amount of operations that Omniscient could perform to make the prestige formula precisely impossible to solve.

They say Omni keeps changing it but he can't keep it secret unless it includes data in it that is not available for users to see.

In the 6th grade they give you math exercises like:

Result is X. You have Y, K and E. With that data, elaborate a formula/calculation to achieve X. That's the exercise you have to do if you want to find out the prestige formula. A smart 13 year old could do it.

In this case you have unknown amount of variables. For example, rep, post count, join date, time online, and many more are variables in the formula. You can probably only estimate the formula, or make guesstimations on what variables effect how much.

I fucking love you Omni.

Great rules, looking forward to see the "no post/pm" rule enforced.

You are an idiot, that is all I have to say.

Many will disagree with this rule, but I think it is well needed.

THANK GOODNESS!

Much appreciated, Omni.

I guess you're not making that much from people upgrading , so this is what you gotta do to sell more l33t.

Be honest, everyone knows you don't give a rats ass about MEMBERS getting scammed/Viruses. Aslong as you get paid.

And on that note. Looks like this thread has come to a close.

Thanks everyone for input. I'm sure more will come from this in the form of features and policies. Just be patient.
