Thread: [\[FIXED\] Am I infected? \[FIXED\]](#)

ZeroComp - May 27, 2012, 8:22 pm

I have been doing a lot of stuff on the internet lately and a couple hours ago I noticed that I could not access Google.com, I figured that I just needed to clear cookies a cache, but I did not feel like it. I just figured out that I can not go to virus scanning sites like NoVirusThanks.org and virustotal. Once I saw that then I knew something was wrong, I opened my task manager and deleted some process that I did not know what they were. I have virus protection, but I know that does not protect me 100%. I have not noticed that much problems other than I can not visit sites.

Okay I do not need help any more, I decided since that is was only the internet infected I looked in my Hosts files and I saw that 3 websites were directing to the wrong DNS. They were Google, NoVirusThanks.org, and VirusTotal. I did run a full scan with 3 different virus programs on my PC and cleared all infected files besides my RATs and keylogger that I own. Also I think I am getting the shit from HF, because my virus protection pops up sometimes saying that it blocked a connection from HackForums.net. I have seen threads in the Lounge about it though, so I know it is normal. Just another reason why I am buying L33T in a couple days...
