

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [\[help\]Tracking cookies](#)

DarkBotl - June 5, 2012, 5:32 am

Hey guys for a few days am keep on getting tracking cookies symtac virus protection scans for tracking cookies it always deletes them but anyway to stop this?

Que. - June 5, 2012, 5:56 am

Cookies are nothing to be worried about.

They simple keep information about your browsing habbits.

-qW.

DarkBotl - June 5, 2012, 5:58 am

Ok, Thanks qW. I was thinking not to worry but wanted to make sure. :)

Que. - June 5, 2012, 6:23 am

(Jun 5, 2012 05:58 AM)DarkBotl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ok, Thanks qW. I was thinking not to worry but wanted to make sure. :)

Just ignore them, but it's smart to remove them a few times as they will gather up space, but theres nothing malicious about them so no need to be worried.

-qW.

Pain And Gain - June 5, 2012, 7:34 am

You can disable tracking cookie's in your browser setting's

Que. - June 5, 2012, 7:42 am

(Jun 5, 2012 07:34 AM)McQ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can disable tracking cookie's in your browser setting's

There is allot of sites that requires the user to have cookies enabled.