Hey I have noticed MANY threads in lounge that don't belong there because of, <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2509687>

I'm thinking you make it so anyone can make threads in the Remote Administration Tools section and Hacking Tools and Programs section. Both of those sections is the main reason why newcomers join hackforums. People will just post in the lounge or a different section if they can't post there..

Just report them as Wrong Section, they will be moved to Beginners Hacking section.

To post there, you need to be upgraded member.

To post there, you need to be upgraded member. You need to be upgraded to make a thread. Anyways newcomers usually go to those sections.. I remember when I joined I made many threads in those sections and learned a lot and also got lots of help.

Here is an example I just saw while browsing through the lounge,

You're right they can't post in referrals, that means they shouldn't post threads containing referral links.

You just have to waste, Omni is going to implement posting in forums by Prestige. This is temporary.

That really isn't going to help the problem since problem mainly revolves around the newcomers.

Usually threads destined for the RAT/keylogger sections go well in the beginner hacking section.
Other than that, there's not much you can do.

Unless you can control the quality of the newcomers, there is nothing that can be done here until the new system takes place. Report out-of-place threads.
