

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [What's your studio setup? \[PICS OF MINE\]](#)

New Age Legacy - June 19, 2012, 6:12 pm

I want to see your little computer/studio set up if you have one. Mine just consists of my laptop and a MIDI keyboard ^-^. Please share your pictures!

Here's mine:

Spoiler (Click to View) [img]<http://i805.photobucket.com/albums/yy340/therock387/photo.jpg>[/img]

(:

Azido - June 19, 2012, 6:14 pm

That's not a studio and dubstep sucks. Nuff said.

P?radox - June 19, 2012, 6:15 pm

That's a sweet midi controller, I was thinking of getting one just like it. Does that one work well for ya?

New Age Legacy - June 19, 2012, 6:21 pm

(Jun 19, 2012 06:15 PM)Ambiti?n Wrote: (CITE) That's a sweet midi controller, I was thinking of getting one just like it. Does that one work well for ya?

Yeah it's a simple Akai LPK25 MIDI keyboard. Got it at guitar center. It was 70$ I think. Pretty cheap, but if you have the money go out and buy the 100$ ones they have. They are a lot more responsive and are better in general.

But yes, this one works very well in my case ?

(Jun 19, 2012 06:14 PM)Defcon? Wrote: (CITE) That's not a studio and dubstep sucks. Nuff said. It was sort of sarcastic. I doubt any members here have an actual studio setup. But I could be wrong.

Cheer up :P

What's Out There - June 19, 2012, 6:27 pm

(Jun 19, 2012 06:14 PM)Defcon? Wrote: (CITE) That's not a studio and dubstep sucks. Nuff said.

In my opinion if you're ub3r you should know better than posting low quality bullshit like that. Trying to raise your post count or you just seek attention? Either way, keep that stuff for the Lounge.

OT; That's not a studio. Although not more than what you actually need when you're starting off. What headphones are these?

I've got pretty much what you have, except I have a little bigger MIDI keyboard, the E-MU SHORTboard. It has a couple of knobs for this and that you can bind to parameters. Also getting KRK Rokits and a simple sound interface in the next few days.

New Age Legacy - June 19, 2012, 6:30 pm

(Jun 19, 2012 06:27 PM)w X r Wrote: (CITE) In my opinion if you're ub3r you should know better than posting low quality bullshit like that. Trying to raise your post count or you just seek attention? Either way, keep that stuff for the Lounge.

OT; That's not a studio. Although not more than what you actually need when you're starting off. What headphones are these?

Sony MDR v150

<http://tinyurl.com/cjlbuju>

(:

Slikshot14 - June 19, 2012, 7:11 pm

I've got this corner in my basement with all 6 of my guitars, two amps, keyboard, pedals, and a whole lotta wires. My laptop sits on a desk in the middle of it. Pics to follow.

b a e - June 19, 2012, 9:10 pm

Dont have a camera at the moment, but if and when I charge my phone I'll be sure to post some pics.

My set up is more geared towards acoustic music, although I do have more then enough for making electro and dubstep and the such.

Spoiler (Click to View)

- Drum set

(Pearl shells, protone heads on all of them except the bass drum which has a super-kick Aquarian head. 14' Zildjian ZBT high hats. Zildjian ZBT 16' crash. Zildjian 20' ride.)

- Trumpet (Bach Stradavarius model 37 with Giardenelli 3m sized mouth piece, close to the Bach 1)

- Saxophone (Selmer STS280 Voix II)

- Guitar (Acoustic- Unmarked, probably some el-cheapo from early 80s Electric - Gibson Les Paul Studio)

- Midi Controller (Yamaha YPT-220, connected to my PC via a Roland UM-ONE cable)

- Digital Piano (Casio AP220)

- Seinheiser HD 449

- Dell XPS 15z + FL Studio and Reason 5

python453 - June 19, 2012, 10:35 pm

I don't have a full studio with acoustic treatment and all but I got my fair share of gear.

Alesis M1 520s going through an Alesis Multimix 4 as an interface. As for controllers I have some shitty casio that I use as a midi controller, and a Korg NanoKontrol and Novation Nocturn that I rarely use.