Thread: Gaming furniture

I have a few grand to spend and I'm buying my own gaming set up. I can't find shut besides seeing this Atlantic crap. I need unique pieces such as desks, wall mounts, chairs etc....

Anyone know of a good company that does this?

Thanks

I see a shit load of them and like 3/4 different kinds. I might get one but I'd like chairs that are more up actually.

I mean that it's higher off the ground. I have a certain height I must be and distance from a tv to be good lol. If I'm to low/far, I suck balls 0.o

Probably because when you're further away you see less detail than when you're closer up.

What that guy said. But remember if you're to close you'll see even less.

Bump! Still looking for all this!

Thanks

Be careful when buying some gaming chairs. Some are nice, but others can be really uncomfortable. Comfort is most likely key if you plan on doing any large amounts of gaming. If you don't have a mini fridge get one, they are incredibly handy unless your setup is in your kitchen. Depending on how much room you have, get some extra seating if you were ever planning on having people come over to your place. Not necessarily go out and drop over a grand on a couch, but maybe some adjustable seating or something from Ikea.

I might buy my desk there but this will be in my room for now so it all depends how I want to set it up I guess.
