I don't understand the problem though. I have a verified PayPal and I would go first anyway. So, if I would charge-back I would need valid proof.

And trust me charging-back for like 150$ is nothing to me.

Even though he might be legit on low deals but higher he might just scam. He is a L33T and registered in 2012. So, there is no way in hell someone should trust him.

You're in no way more trusted then me. There is a difference between making a deal and something going wrong then scamming. Thats what happened with that 110$.
