 - 3) Reasoning behind collecting information
 - 4) Mentality to withhold
 - 5) Maintaining and spying with physical access
 - Cameras
 - GPS
 - 6) Familiarize with items we use on a regular basis (cellphone, car, certain websites, listen to certain songs, interests)
 - 7) Looking deeply into how the person sees themselves and what user names or nicknames he/she uses to refer to themselves for further research.
 - 8) Collecting evidence (Talking to those of whom the person came in contact) - Attempting to send money with Paypal for easy name.
 - 9) Asking the right questions for a potential future target and saving the information collected.
 - 10) Using possible forms of virtual access to fool any person in between for acquiring information. Making new user names, spoofing e-mails, spoofing cellphone.
 - 11) How to protect yourself from being DOX
 - Creating fake accounts on purpose (blogspot, youtube, twitter, etc) with regular usernames you use
 - Creating face social networking accounts with fake information to throw seeker off
 - Using VPS or VPN or Proxies
 - Never giving your real information to strangers
 - Have paranoia
 - 12) Securing your computer, in case if problems arise.
 - Truecrypt (strong password)

 - Double operating system
 - Options of demolishing harddrive
 - 1) Introduction
- The most crucial part in Doxing is OBSERVATION!

After lots of thinking and attempting to make up my mind on whether if I should make this tutorial; I decided to finally write this complete tutorial exemplifying the ideas and concepts behind the art of DOXing, other wise known as collecting information or footprinting.

I've looked over the tutorials on Hackforums and I was a bit surprised seeing how not a single person had taken the time to write a very detailed tutorial dissecting possible forms of collection and gathering in an organized fashion.

So, what is Doxing you might ask? It's simple. It's using the internet or external sources of revenues to acquire information about a specific individual for reasons that vary person through person. ?

2) Other tutorials found in HackForums

I have taken the liberty to put all the tutorials in one source to make it possible for everyone to read all the alternatives out there.

There are other tutorials floating around but these seemed promising enough to include.

Doxing Tutorial by Thanatos

DOXING TUTORIAL \(HOT\) by n3oera

[\[Tutorial: Doxing a skid\] by Hytrax™](#)

Doxing tutorial by vladimirzec

[\[TUT\]How to dox\[TUT\] by Lulzy](#)

[\[MEGA\] How to prevent yourself from getting DOX'ed, Simple steps that can make you completely anonymous online\[MEGA-TUT\] by Sweat Heart](#)

3) Reasoning behind collecting information

So, why would anyone spend time collecting information about someone else? The answer could be multiple reasons for which I am certain I do not know every possible scenario, however; based on personal experience working with individuals that have paid me in the past, it usually relies solely on relationships that went bad and there remains a soulless victim seeking the truth or some sense of comfort in knowing that their loved one is either content or in demise as they are. ?

But putting jokes aside, there are many reasons as to why I have created all the methods that I will go over. The root behind my methodology relies on idiots online threatening to get me into trouble simply because I exposed the kind of real individuals that they truly were. The ideas and concepts have become very complex and have required synonymous forms of profiling for each specific target.

The concept of social engineering is taken into great account, as well as maintaining the proper mentality to avoid months, or years equivalent of work compacted together into a soluble form of information that can help you sleep at night, get revenge, or whatever the hell you wish to do.

I have written similar tutorials on the subject to give you an idea of how you should be routing the form in which you should think.

Highly recommend to read both tutorials.

How to prepare your mind for anything \(Tutorial\)

It is essential that you control the form in which you think as you endure this process for the mere reason that you must hold your human intentions and emotions back to assure that complete success is captured.

Know the minds behind the faces \(Overview tutorial\)

This particular tutorial that I had written goes over how each particular person, depending on their ethnicity, location, age, gender, or mentality can be psychologically controlled, thus making them inclined to give you information that you so desired.

4) Mentality to withhold

You need to get out of the mentality in not being "so nice" referring to being completely honest and modest about who you are.

You will likely have to form a persona to persuade the target in order to gain what you seek and desire. I would highly recommend you to read my tutorials if you are not familiar with the concepts.

If you don't know how to lie, then practice now.

Use similar possible personalities that perhaps you held when you were a spoiled brat as a child, and by that, I am referring to being manipulative to get what you want.

The concepts that I mentioned on my tutorials originated from cables that I've read off FBI and CIA historical methodology in forming strategies in order to corner, stalk, and capture a wanted individual, although I wrote everything from my head since the prescribed methodology is rather almost impossible in real life due to scenarios and possible risks.

5) Maintaining and spying with physical access

The level at which you can risk your involvement with the target depends highly on the security of the location in which the target resides. As well, as the country that you are from. If you are one of those who is willing to take the methodology to a higher level due to desperation, my suggestions will be as following:

-Look into cellphones that have built in GPS software to be used.

These cellphones can be easily attached on a car to tell you exactly where the target is.

The cellphone must give you reports of the location via the Internet.

I am certain that most modern cellphones have the capability of telling you via the Internet of where you are without physically being present at that particular location.

You have to become creative on how you can attach the cellphone on a car and where it should go. Take the time to observe a car on the surface and on the bottom, and find the best possible location to attach the cellphone with something that will maintain it steady and solidified.

There are tons of possibilities on how this can occur, so think and be creative.

There are companies out there whose purpose has resided on the sole purpose of keeping a keen eye on teenagers, so I suppose that you can use that if you wish:

<http://www.liveviewgps.com/gps+teen+tracking.html>

<http://www.wikihow.com/Make-a-Smart-Car-Surveillance-System-Using-a-Mobile-Phone>

The idea is to look for a portable GPS or cellphone that will maintain sufficient battery power to send you updates, but the problem is of course that the battery will eventually die and it will no longer be usable unless if you replace it.

6) Familiarize with items we use on a regular basis (cellphone, car, certain websites, listen to certain songs, interests)

As mentioned before, if you want to take the intuitive cause of personally going on to the next level of focusing heavily over the target, then you must familiarize yourself with what the person's interests are.

Be cognizant of what type of car, cellphone, websites they visit, what their favorite music, or anything that could potentially be rendered to be useful whenever searching information about this target.

Any small chunk of information can potentially make a difference and it narrows down the amount of work since you only focus over a specific range of subjects, rather than blindly begin a path with no ending at the end.

For example, let's say that you have a target who has very interest in Cats, but to be very specific, Siberian tigers.

You'd focus your effort in attempting to search in possible realms of where this person might be situated using the sources that will be later mentioned within the tutorial.

7) Looking deeply into how the person sees themselves and what user names or nicknames he/she uses to refer to themselves for further research.

This particular step is very important as it narrows down your amount of work that you put in.

This is where the usage of the internet revolves very heavily since you will need to use search engines to possibly find information.

Pay VERY close attention of what name your target uses online, such as online user names or real life nicknames as these can be the username that the target uses online.

As you might expect, the most obvious options would be

<http://google.com>

Or any other possible popular search engines, however, there are also other possibilities as well.

The usage of Google "dorks" is very very important in this process.

<http://imgtfy.com/?q=google+dorks>

<http://www.exploit-db.com/google-dorks/>

As well as Google "allinurl"

<http://imgtfy.com/?q=google+allinurl>

http://www.googleguide.com/advanced_operators.html

The usage of such methods rely based on the knowledge of SEO (Search Engine Optimization) which eases certain phrases to be sought on search engines together for being more specific on your query search, and to get better results.

For example, let's say that you have a user name of:

User name: HackForums

And you know that the person likes video games, let's say CallOfDuty.

You'd use the dorks or allinurl methodology to find specific results to those specific phrases.

The search would look something like this:

HackForums+CallOfDuty

Directing Google to search both phrases together, and if you do in fact find something, then it is in fact great since it could be potentially useful information.

Spend time learning how to use dorks or additional signs to narrow down your searches.

Another option is that you can use:

<http://archive.org/web/web.php>

<http://ipinfodb.com/>

Does a better query search for you:

<http://symbolhound.com/>

To potentially look at saved cache within the server that could've saved information about your target based on their user names but perhaps their account was deleted or changed their name to something else.

The ability to look back into the past, only aids the cause of finding more information.

If you need help finding anybody, I can help out for a fee.

Well, I believe this is all I have to say for now.

As always, all credits go to me for the tutorial. (Developer)

And please DO NOT steal all my work since it ALWAYS happens on all my tutorials.

People copying and pasting all my work on their sites to make others believe that they are some sorts of geniuses. Be original and write your own content.
