Thread: [\[app\]android app to crack wifi\[app\]](#)

millasjuanes - June 27, 2012, 3:52 pm

Hey guys just wanted to share one of the most useful apps i have on my android ..
The app is called pulwifi , no longer in the market, its the easiest to get passwords.

it doesnt attempt to generate a password nor does it give you false hope.
it lets you know right away which wifi can it get the passwords from and which ones it cant.

now lets be honest dont expect this to get you into a WPA network.
works with WEP and it doesnt work with all of them.
hope this helps

here is the link to the APK

i uploaded this myself..
if you dont trust it you can look for it yourself if you like, post some gratitude and a vouch would be nice :)

thanks nate for the QR code .. didnt cross my mind to include that Have you tried it out?
any opinions?

Trying now on my own internet. Will post how it went.

EDIT: Oh shit, forgive I changed to WPA2...

EDIT2: No supported WiFi around me. :(

yea it aint the greatest but it does help when your walking around and like i pointed out it doesnt guess the password it actually gets it if its possible and it lets you know immediately(which why i like it)... and its simple to use .. in mexico i gotten at least 30 wi-fi networks in the entire time i had this app...
