You don't have to live in the US or Canada in order to get rewards. Hell, even I don't live in either of those. There are JBHIFI gift cards for Australians and the Xbox cards work world wide, as well as the PSN cards. Amazon also ships world wide. This is very much an international rewards system.
Enjoy!

Read the beginners guide under the info tab. It tells you to create a new email address for spam. Also they will not send any junk mail to your house.

lindsaymills42o - July 10, 2012, 1:59 am

I have a suggestion OP now I don't own any of these money making sites so idk how hard it is but if you had a paypal/LR payment method that could be paid in a short amount of time [like rewardingbucks they pay on the same day you cash out but pay no attention to their surveys] and yeah just one site with surveys that work well its so annoying doing 40 survey to get 2 accepted :/.

Just some suggestion OP :)

1337B345T3R - July 11, 2012, 3:01 pm

I see where you are coming from even with that horrific font xD.

The site is based around rewards not cash, hence the name insane rewards.

Also everyone don't forget that the winner of the Lucky Lotto is drawn tomorrow so keep earning those points and opt in to the lotto if you haven't already!!

Sadly, I don't even like the site.

No offense.

I've did 4 offers and got no points.

I even did the netflix offer and waited for my points NEVER got them.

I waited for the netflix trial to run out to see if I get any points and I didn't. All I got was a charge $8 on my card.

Nice "site" anyways.

Never saw such an dumb idiotic site before.

The design and everything looks cool, but there isn't even E-mail verification. I made a account with random name, a 150% Fake phone number that wasn't correct. And i didn't get any points after doing surveys. And if i close the tab and reopen the site,

I'm logged out again.

The one coded it, can't code. The one designed it, is epic.

TROLOLOL.

Only dumbfucks use the site. I can buy points. '1459 points for €40'. You can get things like a $15 iTunes card with that.

AND YOU NEED TO DO 1K SURVEYS FOR 2K POINTS. LOL.

See the difference.

1350 Users <-> 50 giftcards.

And Mr. Idiot, your lazy. If you weren't, you did know that scam report already is closed.

Still, it's dumb. €40 for $15. 1k surveys for 2,000 points. I bet most of the users are multiple account and inactives, or use bots. I even can acces the site with a public proxy and ProXPN.
