Thread: [+ALERT! ALERT!+ FREE CRYPTER SOURCES \[NO BULLSHIT LINK IN THREAD\] 6 SOURCES! C++](#)

D3vildog - July 8, 2012, 8:52 pm

Hi guys, I collect source code and had a request for my crypter sources so I thought I would put them all here for everyone to get. Apparently Han. was too good to ask for them so he -3'd me. Anyway... I was going to do this yesterday on dropbox but it's SOFA KING SLOW! It eventually failed and I had to do it today (sorry stdio.h)

THE PART U HAVE BEEN READING FOR:(or just skip to the big text that's fine)

THE LINK: <http://www.mediafire.com/?a4n5k44s1rletky>

Also it would be nice if you went to my blog (<http://www.malwaresource.webs.com>) and commented something nice, or advertised my blog. I put daily sources on there but I have to put surveys on those.

These crypters are all in C++, no VB, no C#, no Ruby on Rails, etc. They should have no .exe's but if I missed them then DON'T RUN THEM.

Also post on this so it gets popular I want people to get these crypters, I got them from around the web and HF last year.(not made by me)

Love2D - July 14, 2012, 9:30 pm

Another one of these threads taking away from the people who actually code the crypters and are selling them.

Grr, you guys make me sick.

D3vildog - July 14, 2012, 9:47 pm

@Love2D these are like from 2008 plus I doubt most people could actually compile them, if they are able to compile them they are completely detected probably. IF they modify it so it is FUD.... Then they still have to figure out Runtime hiding. This is a good start for anyone wanting to make a crypter who knows a good amount about programming.

Fosswire - July 14, 2012, 10:23 pm

Great share mate,but I am confused a bit are these source codes or crypter itself as I can see 35.x file size in download page.

How do you expect a closed member to re upload the link? This thread is 2 years old.

Does that term now have a filter? Let's find out: gravedig. Again? Gravedigging. Nope.

Bumping used to be filtered. Not anymore.

With a lowercase 'b' it still is. Watch: Bump (no filter) versus (filter activated). See? It removed it when it's with a lowercase 'b'. Try it yourself, I'm not lying.
