MSDN GUIDE

By Johngianni

In this guide I will explain to you how to get a MSDN Admin account. This guide was made for DreamTeam©. It was fully created by me.

What MSDN is mainly about is a account that can give you a download of Microsoft programs as well as generate keys. This can sometimes be immensely useful.

Steps

1. Depending on the quantity of accounts you decide to make, I recommend signing up here. What this does is allow you to create up to 100 email accounts on one office live account. This is very handy to use if you want to make several accounts.

2. After making the account hit "Email." Then you want to hit "Create New Email Account." It will ask for some quick information. When making the emails make them sound legit, not something crazy. In this case I can pick BobSQL@officeliveusers.com. After you are satisfied with the amount of emails you have made click here to go to Bizspark.

3. Bizspark is the main way you will receive these programs. It is somewhat like a job application. You need to make it seem like quality. First, scroll down and look to the left. Check the box and hit "Join Bizspark now!"

NOTE: Once you hit "Join Bizspark now!" and you look on the top and it says "Sign out" this is because the Office Live account you made earlier is signed in. What you want to do is sign out and hit the main button again. Also, do not refresh the office live business account or you will be signed off of it. Just leave it on the page with the lists of emails if you want to look at it for every time you attempt to make an account.

4. It will then ask for a email and password. Go ahead in order from the emails you made on the office live account. It will ask you to make a new password. Just fill out everything immensely quick if you do not want to waste time.

TIP: What I sometimes do is make a quick password. One that is immensely simple. Just if you do that like me do not share your accounts you create to be safe and not lose them if they get accepted.

4. Next, sign in with the new password this time. Check both boxes to accept and go to the next step.

The Application

This is main part of the whole tutorial. It is important that you do this the best. Making it quality gives you a better chance of being accepted and not declined.

TIP: What sometimes works is you can search around for a minor SQL service. If they have some information you can use theirs. You can search around Yellow Pages sometimes as well.

1. The startup name is the company name. In this case mine will be Bob's SQL Services
2. For this step you should maybe find a site you manage to find. On Yellow Pages search around and usually you will find one with some information. If you really can not find one type in "N/A" I did this 3 times and have working MSDN Admins. Sometimes companies do not have hosted solutions which gives a excuse for no website.
3. For the address you can go on Google Maps. Try finding a legit address that can work. Fill in the address, city, zip code, and country.
4. The company description can be sometimes the most important element of the application. Make a brief summary on your company. This requires some good grammar and literature skills. Take some time and make it sound good. For mine I can say I have sold several SQLs and such.
5. In the description if you stated you have a small business then you should have low amount of Employees and developers. For instance, 40 employees and 35 developers.
6. Check box or boxes that match your company.
7. In all the drop down bars make them all say "No."
8. When it asks for a twitter say N/A.
9. Fill in a first name, last name and you do not have to include a phone number. Use the email address you made in the office live account. Tell how you heard about them and hit next step.
10. Scroll down and check off one network partner. What this does is your sending the application to them and if they accept you have a MSDN admin. It usually takes 3 business days.

NOTE: DO NOT CHOOSE A NETWORK PARTNER THAT IS HOSTING OR MICROSOFT!

After choosing you are finished! You can sign out and repeat this step with another account if you like. These accounts can sometimes be valuable. They are becoming more brutal to get now. It is good to have one for yourself. I hope you liked my guide and expect many more soon. Be sure to suggest some guides for me.

ONLY 3 MSDN ACCOUNTS CAN BE MADE ON ONE IP! THAT MEANS YOU SHOULD USE A PROXY SWITCHER FOR EVERY 3 ACCOUNTS YOU MAKE!

Nice share. But the green is really hard to read.

Change the color of the TIPS to light blue or aqua, it will be easier to read.

GreekMan - February 12, 2010, 1:26 am

My bad. Hold on. I noticed that to. I thought it was just me.

EDIT: Fixed it.

Xaniar - February 12, 2010, 1:31 am

Thanks mate good guide ...

LOL.

Thanks Johngianni for this Great tutorial.

I'm sure it'll be helpful for a lot of people.

Thanks again.

thank you for this really appreciated

GreekMan - February 12, 2010, 3:02 pm

Post back your results guys. Keep in mind this is only a public version. This should work if you do it correctly though.

Irelandrulz2 - February 12, 2010, 3:06 pm

This is a great tut but this will kill people who are selling ebooks for msdn guides, and I'm sure you got the idea from an ebook too.

Perhaps post it in the hf l33t section or something because anyone can view.

No, these are my personal ideas I use. The yellow pages was mine. I knew about small office live. People should not be selling ebooks on it. It is immensely simple. Besides, I want everyone to learn and not just HF L33T.

AGREED

If this tut is going PUBLIC and everyone make like shit, i think Microsoft will create new rules or something like that. Remember when Microsoft Banned all MSDN previous time before ? And MSDN Getting RARE , People sell it for high price. ??

GreekMan - February 12, 2010, 7:07 pm

I have private methods. These are my simple ones. I throw them out to public like candy.

just to think twice to give this to public... ?

ZGEGEG123 - February 17, 2010, 9:37 am

Thanks for the guide. What kind of accounts are there, mine says it's retail. How do you get an Admin, if you were to have a retail one?

GreekMan - February 17, 2010, 1:09 pm

Retail? You mean a normal one? If you do it like this you should be able to apply.

Psyko12 - February 18, 2010, 1:59 pm

Nice tutorial. Let's just see if my somewhat decent english makes it through the gates of hell and into the gentle world of MSDN!

GreekMan - February 18, 2010, 6:04 pm

Good luck! Keep in mind it is more brutal to get accepted now.

It gets rejected when you sign in and it still is no longer pending and you have no privileges. It is probably the network partner you picked. I recommend Plug and Play Center

Psyko12 - February 19, 2010, 7:57 am

I was rejected. Didn't get approved. Then again I didn't make/find a website :(

I know you made the tutorial so you wouldn't have to, but would you mind helping me out finding a website that I could use? I could register a new mail and all if I just had a damn site =/

Sure no problem, try Atomic Bytes on Yellowpages. On the page it says view website just use that one. You can also make stuff relating to this.

<http://www.yellowpages.com/info-451376474/Atomic-Bytes?lid=451376474>

Psyko12 - February 20, 2010, 4:43 am

The yellow pages site appears to be down.

<http://downforeveryoneorjustme.com/> agrees.

If anyone is able to enter that site, can you copy the info and send it to me?

That is the problem, there aren't any. I would recommend if your router is able to switch your IP, turn it off for two minutes as well as unplugging. That is what I do when I am IP banned from HF for refreshing to much.

blazin6969 - March 4, 2010, 11:10 pm

Hey Its been almost 5 days now and still pending on mine...Any suggestion, I selected the partner you recommended as well. Is this a good thing or a bad thing. Also are you selling any private guides that are more garunteed? Thanks alot

GreekMan - March 5, 2010, 9:11 am

Sooner or later I might. MSDN is dieing by the minute. I am unsure of a good network partner. One answered in one day for me but I can't seem to remember. Just wait a few more days.

Zero. - March 8, 2010, 4:46 am

I have sent in my application..

Ill keep you guys updated :)

lovemaster - March 8, 2010, 12:49 pm

LOL

my tipps to ya :

you need an Email (since ~ 2 years)

after this , log in with it , and follow all the steps here, but a good site, and all the legit adresses and informations employees = 5

developer = 4

what your developing should be similar and not everything

just tick:

SQL server and MySQL

select a network partner , that is similar to your information , like IT with Computer , forum hosters or smth else

if you did it, you should recive after 3 days an accept mail of bizspark NOT your network partner

if you recive an email from your network partner, then you only have 30 % chance to get the msdn

by following their instructions

you must write something good, and changing your email names to the one with you signed up to bizspark.

and sometimes they ask for signature with PDF, but you can fake it
and verify it

this is the only way

if you have an own site and mailbox, you can register with your site too, because sometimes they ask for an email that is from your site

good luck mayn

Zero - March 8, 2010, 1:59 pm

Here is what i got..

Unfortunately, we are unable to approve your enrollment at this time. In many cases, we are unable to grant an approval because of insufficient or ambiguous information (e.g. your URL and email don't match, you left a field blank, etc.).

They want an email that matches the site ..

Is there a way to do this?

lovemaster - March 9, 2010, 6:02 am

yeah , many subdomain providers have a mailbox link the site to them , register with the URL, create an email e.g. Peter@subdomain.com and your problem is, because , your addresses and information bizspark doesnt look to the e-mail

the network partners decide it

I never used to enter a site and got accepted. Maybe they are getting more serious now. You may need to make some investments if you would want to try to make a matching email. Or some ways are free. I will look more into it soon.
