Just a friendly tip, correct grammar, spelling, and capitalization will go a long way in the business world.

Correct grammar makes you look pro. If you type without completing a word or like this "lol ths is n exmple" Makes you look like you're a kid... Good luck though!

If you really are serious about making money and have trouble with English, this honestly isn't a bad idea. I think it'd be a better idea to just hire someone to be your PR manager though, the person that types everything you want, the person that will take care of public relations.
