What's your experience with UnHackMe? Piece of shit or is it handy?

I used it a while ago but I had no hackerproblems so I turned it off. It seemed like it scanned my computer every startup after attempts too.

I have never used it. I use GMER for detecting rootkits.

I don't even think that Unhackme works properly, tested it and it allowed a Trojan free access to my test box.

looked hopeful but it's dodgy, im trying aviras anti-root kit.

iBruteforce - February 20, 2010, 12:16 pm

It's good. IceSword is preferred.

Couldn't you just use a regular AV to detect rootkits? eg. Norton 360 school me plz

I suggest this as well. It also serves as a task manager.
