Would it be a good idea to keep buying stickies for my RAT in The RAT section? Or would it be better just staying here at Primary Sellers.

Not sure..

Mr Kewl - August 19, 2012, 7:21 am

It's good to buy stickies in RAT section than Primary sellers if you aim for selling RAT.

Florist - August 19, 2012, 7:21 am

Well. Why don't you try both and see which one works better?

RAT Section, definitely.

You narrow down your targeted people by using a section merely for RAT related threads!

KyleWTF - August 19, 2012, 7:33 am

Alright, just got to fix some things up with the code and I think I'll buy a sticky there.

I agree with this, plus its not 240$ a month for the stickies.

Yeah, not to mention I have an autobuy set up.. so people can get a nice RAT for under $25 in seconds..

Should be good, any other thoughts?

No, you're an idiot if you put the sticky in the RAT section. If I need to explain why then you lack understanding of basic marketing.

So no too it? I just would think that it would narrow who is searching for my RAT.

RAT section. Thats what I will do.

I will buy EVERY week, as I did with my last product. Like 3 months.

Hmm, still wanting to know about this.

What can I expect as a different from:

Normal Thread in Primary Sellers

or

RAT Sticky

His profit margin would be larger going with the RAT section.

St. Jiberish - August 19, 2012, 7:04 pm

I would just buy in the Premium Sellers section.

Grounded - August 19, 2012, 9:31 pm

Just try one for one week and another in the other. See which is more profitable and go from there.

KyleWTF - August 19, 2012, 9:42 pm

I find primary difficult to get.. It's never open

Doncaster Rovers - August 20, 2012, 2:02 am

I would go wit the rat section I mean people go there to see stuff about rats so why wouldn't it be a good idea plus less completion for your product people won't see your rat than something like a host booter and be like no I want the host booter more they will just see your rat vs, other rats!
