Well, I guess you didn't buy this reseller account for nothing.

If you actually plan make money from your reseller rights, go ahead, find a sexy template and promote your website.

Nope, you get the same template files as any premium user would get. There is no verification or such thing.

I don't think that DreamTemplate sells Wordpress template, but I'm not sure.

xorgan - March 26, 2013, 2:34 pm

I take it as a no.

There are several templates like this, such as

<http://www.dreamtemplate.com/templates/7324/businessedition---html-template.html>

<http://www.dreamtemplate.com/templates/6674/myweb-cuber---website-template.html>

<http://www.dreamtemplate.com/templates/6671/unicall-cuber---html-template.html>
<http://www.dreamtemplate.com/templates/6669/webpro-cuber---css-template.html>

etc.

They do need some coding skill, but if you just want to keep it that way you can just edit the text in the html files. BUT it'd be way easier if you have some coding skills.

(Mar 27, 2013 07:42 AM)xorgan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Does this mean that you are infact selling said Wordpress themes?

Yes, I'm selling every single template that DreamTemplate is selling.

I'm interested but I assume these are not legit licensed copies right? No different then torrenting them? (not trying to sales bash) it's I'm setting up a site for someone and it has to be legit.

Please let me know :D

I'm just downloading the templates for you from the website. It is clearly stated in the agreement text:

"WHAT YOU CAN DO:

You can use the templates for your personal website.

You can use the templates for your company/corporate website

You can use the templates for your client's websites (50 projects max)"

So you can do whatever you want with the template, it will remain legit (as long as you don't claim that you designed the template.).
