Suggestion: Universal Group Stars

Okay, so for those who have no idea what a star is.

It's the star below your profile name.

[img]http://cdn2.hackforums.net/images/blackreign/star.gif[/img][img]http://cdn2.hackforums.net/images/blackreign/star.gif[/img][img]http://cdn2.hackforums.net/images/blackreign/star.gif[/img][img]http://cdn2.hackforums.net/images/blackreign/star.gif[/img]

What I'm suggesting, is that the stars don't depend on what is your Display group (for me, it's the Empire userbar) but depend on your Primary Group (which will be normal, L33t or Ub3r).

So what I'm stating, is that Ub3r members, who decide to change their userbar to one of, let's say Rhythm, will have the same amount of stars under their name as they would if they had their primary userbar (ub3r etc...) displayed.

I'm not sure if this is actually possible. But I don't think it's a bad idea.

Pros:

Upgraded members get more stars

No extra resource usage

No impact on normal members

Cons:

No real benefit (apart from looks)

Can't think of anything else

This has been suggested and denied before. Check out the other feedback here. I also feel like this would be set-up through Omni and the leaders. This would have to be some sort of addition that would more than likely be price related. Reference this scenario to the Red Lions. They have a darker shade under their username.

How did you find that....

I searched for "star", "stars" and like 4 other things in this section and didn't turn up with anything.

I don't think there would be a second chance for Omni to consider this then.
