Thread: How To Mass Export All Of Your Facebook Friends' Private Email Addresses

Dimeblade - September 18, 2012, 4:14 am

1. Create a Yahoo email account. Even if you have an old one, create a new one so that the imported contacts are clean. It only takes a minute. You'll get a confirmation screen that looks like this, below. Click on import contacts "Get Started" link and then choose Facebook. Note – do not use Chrome for this, it doesn't appear to work in that browser.

[img]http://tctechcrunch2011.files.wordpress.com/2010/11/congratsmichael.png?w=640[/img]

2. Authorize Yahoo in the Facebook pop up and then wait a few seconds. You'll see a confirmation screen like this:

[img]http://tctechcrunch2011.files.wordpress.com/2010/11/fb2.jpg?w=640[/img]

3. Ok, you've now imported the names and email addresses of all your Facebook friends into Yahoo. Now just click "tools" in Yahoo mail and export. CSV format is a good format for uploading to Gmail or your desktop contact book. Save the file to your desktop, and you're done.

[img]http://tctechcrunch2011.files.wordpress.com/2010/11/fb4.jpg?w=640[/img]

4. Enjoy your new contacts. You've just done something that Facebook says you have no right to do, using tools provided by Facebook.

PLEASE READ:: It took me a LONG time to write this, the LEAST you could do is say thanks.

Thank You ?

(Sep 18, 2012 04:19 AM)eXpan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thanks for sharing mate, but does it include ALL email addresses?

Not only the ones that aren't hidden?

It shows all your Facebook Friends Email. Not only the emails hidden.

?? Thanks You ??

I used Firefox.

I tried it on a different computer with different accounts, same browser and my Facebook contacts were added to my yahoo contacts.

But the .csv file exported by yahoo didn't contain my Facebook contacts!

No matter how many times I tried!

To get round this I Just went to view all contacts in yahoo and "printed" them to a .xps file. I then created my own .csv using CSVed
