

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How do I do I make programs "run as admin" automatically?

huManipulator - September 19, 2012, 9:54 pm

Can anyone let me know the settings, and where to find them?

Pops - September 19, 2012, 9:56 pm

(Sep 19, 2012 09:54 PM)ChessWithPeople Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can anyone let me know the settings, and where to find them?

You should be able to make an administrator account or just change the settings in control panel. That's what I did :P

Syndicate - September 19, 2012, 9:59 pm

(Sep 19, 2012 09:54 PM)ChessWithPeople Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can anyone let me know the settings, and where to find them?

Press the start menu button, type

"change user account control settings" in the search menu

Select this option

Drag the thingy to "Never notify" like this

-Man of Steel.

huManipulator - September 19, 2012, 10:41 pm

I have all those settings like that, but I didn't know if they really "ran as admin" when on the one and only account on the computer.

Cybride - September 19, 2012, 10:49 pm

(Sep 19, 2012 09:59 PM)s??????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Drag the thingy to "Never notify" like this

It is really insecure to disable uac.

Its better to allow single programs to be run with admin-rights, like this.

[img]http://www.sevenforums.com/attachments/tutorials/12832d1243933304-run-administrator-compatibility_mode1.jpg[/img]