(Oct 10, 2012 12:30 PM)Bionic Wrote: (CITE) What do you mean by locked? Confused.

Well when you buy any iPhone that is not factory unlocked it will be locked to a certain carrier. Now what you can do is "jailbreak" it which is not guaranteed to work plus it is not out for the iphone 5 the jailbreak unlock is also not permanent whats so ever. The official unlock will unlock it forever officially and legally. It also increases the value of the product much greatly then the $9 you pay.

Lol I can unlock it just fine. Especially if it is at&t. If you can pm me the imei I can do a status check. But no matter what I can unlock any at&t iPhone easily. So you can use other sim cards.

Yes you can, but you will need to go to a sprint store and ask them for a simcard for the account. They will sell you a sim card for $10 and switch your account to it. Now all you have to do is get your unlocked at&t iphone 4s and put in the sim card. It would work fine, a buddy of mine did it. Pm me if you would like me to unlock.

Yes I will unlock your Telus for $9

Dr.Cooper - October 12, 2012, 4:01 am

My question was: If I unlock the phone, do I have to still pay for the At&T company because I took the contract for 2 years.

Yes, I know I will be able to use another sim. I want to change my sim, that's the reason I want to unlock my iPhone.

(Oct 12, 2012 05:50 AM)SMOKED OUT© Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Bro will this make IMEI blocked phones work? like phones that have been lost or stolen.

thanks.Lol I know that most of the time unblocking phones is illegal. Well the law actually is if I unblock your imei to use with the same company that it was blocked from.

Yes I can do it for the price of $9 but if something happens, or if you actually did steal it ? They can easily block it again for you.

So in the end I am not doing anything but unlocking it from the carrier, and I have no unlawful intention. But please don't steal your mate's iPhones and expect me to help you out if they keep getting blocked.

(Oct 12, 2012 04:01 AM)Dr.Cooper Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My question was: If I unlock the phone, do I have to still pay for the At&T company because I took the contract for 2 years.

Yes, I know I will be able to use another sim. I want to change my sim, that's the reason I want to unlock my iPhone.

Well if you have a legal contract with at&t you are going to have to abide by their terms. There's no way out unless they let you.

*There is only one way to break a legal phone contract for free. You would have to file for bankruptcy, which is like only for big businesses that are going broke. And the lawyers would cost more then the cost of the phone so just suck it up and pay your bills :P.

Ok well basically you need to get a verizon sim card. Verizon sim cards aren't easy to get. Call the customer service up and tell them you need a verizon sim card to use with an unlocked phone. They will charge you 10-15 bucks and send you one in the mail. After that you hit me up and give me your imei. Then I unlock your iPhone. Then you put in the simcard and everything works fine. ?

No it will not, I do suggest doing a factory reset and getting your normal baseband back though and unlock it officially instead of that unstable jailbreak you got there.

Yes there is. But it is super expensive. I would recommend you just software unlock your sprint phone.

Basically you need to jailbreak it then download the unlock, there are over 1 million youtube tutorials. After it is unlocked you call up Verizon and be like aye I got this New iPhone it is cdma unlocked. They will be like cool ight. And will help transfer your services to that phone. ?

Even though the official unlock is a hundred times better, sprint is just way to expensive to connect to there stupid server.

[3] Different ways to do this.

1. Put a non at&t simcard and connect to itunes.

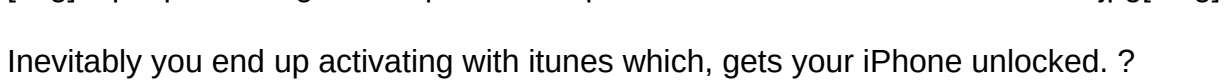

or

2. Restore the iPhone with itunes.

http://km.support.apple.com/library/APPLE/APPLECARE_ALLGEOS/HT1414/en_US/HT1414--restore_screen-002-en.png

or

3. Deactivate the iPhone with redsn0w (not recommended)

http://iphoneblogr.com/wp-content/uploads/2012/04/redsn0w-deactivate.jpg

Inevitably you end up activating with itunes which, gets your iPhone unlocked. ?

Well it becomes officially unlocked. So if you change providers in the future you would be able to use it with them. I think you will eventually sell it as newer phones will be out in the future.

But it just gains your device Mobile service freedom, so if you travel internationally you could use it there. ?

Because 3 UK are pieces of crap, and won't let anyone in their servers for less then $950 a month. Selling at the price of $129.99/€99.99 and unlock, gets me enough money to make a bit of profit by the end of the month. Unless I opened up an unlocking website that has really high demands for three UK, I could lower my prices then. For now that is the lowest I can go, sorry if it is too much.

Woah. Didn't know that. Well, good that they have excellent plans at least so I don't plan on changing a sim-card, but I was thinking maybe I would sell my 4s soon and unlocked would get me more money. But I guess its not worth it now, since I definitely won't get 100 pounds extra for that xD

But if you were forced to change networks, it would definitely cost less to unlock then to buy a new one.

Thanks for making this clear. I did always refund him and all the phones that guy gave me were very strange. Like banned from carriers and barred. I was honest and told him I could not do it in the end and returned his money. In the mean while 99% of the iphones I unlock end up perfect and 99% of my customers are happy. Look at the vouches. ?

It is 100% legal in the US. However there is now a law not letting you unlock stolen phones, like ones that are barred. So as long as its actually your iPhone and not one you jacked, you'll be fine and its perfectly legal.

Just a reminder to everyone that my services are still up and running (cause a bunch of people have been pming me asking me if I still unlock iPhones)

I unlock iPhones. Just tell me the carrier and iPhone model and I'll give you a price. I also unlock various black listed companies, and can clean the esn of Verizon iPhones. So no matter what kind of service, if it has to do with iPhones or Phone Unlocking of any phone just pm me.

Please give me up to 24 hours to respond, as I have to respond to about 300 inquires a day.
