Thread: Bought BlackShades over a year ago - still available?

Ronald Weasley - October 10, 2012, 9:13 pm

I was coming back to download it since I had a lifetime license but I see xvisceral hasn't been on in months.

Is it still possible to get Blackshades?

Is it still updated/still work properly?

Thanks

Cynical. - October 10, 2012, 9:16 pm

Yep. If you still remember your login @ <http://bshades.eu/> then sign in then go to your products.

Website seems to be down, and I probably don't remember my info. Is there anyway to contact support anymore or is everything basically dead?

About 2 months back when I was getting back into ratting, there support was very prompt during the day. (Probably 10-20 minute responses.)

Law - October 11, 2012, 1:20 am

Warning you now marijinz was caught with an old Backdoor (or what he says marketplace exploit)

When confronted he said he removed it, then a member reanalysis only to find he had just changed the command name and it was still there.

Id advise a different RAT after everything thats went on.

Thats funny, I took a year break (I purchased the RAT around 2 years ago), my ticket has been open for 5 days regarding HWID reset and getting the new download link and I still haven't gotten access to the RAT, in fact the last reply was 3 days ago asking for my new HWID (to which I replied). The support is absolutely shit, and I've given up. I guess because they already have my money and I can't chargeback from 2 years ago, they no longer need to support me.

Also as the poster above says, apparently it's no longer safe to use their products, I've end up downloading a cracked version of this which works great, funny I got more support from the person who cracked it than the actual BS team, what a joke.

northman - October 11, 2012, 5:36 am

Yes, untrustworthy product and group. And that co-founder XVisceral guy was arrested for credit card fraud and promoting BS on a carding forum.

The backdoor is there, check my sig for further details and proof.

If you still want to use this terrible product, you can find the latest version cracked floating around on Internet.

You are better off using a new recent rat called ControlME. Based off DarkComet with newer and better features, and also run by people who don't have such a sketchy background.

Mr. Powell - October 11, 2012, 6:39 am

Xvisceral got caught for credit card fraud so he's out of the picture. The latest blackshades(5.3) is backdoored along with 5.2(don't know if any other versions are backdoored). Also 5.3 got cracked and so purchasing blackshades .NET is some what not worth it lol.

Sorry but I have contacted him, Advanced and another BS admin, via here and tickets, they ignored me on here, and my ticket has been open for 4 days and I still don't have access to the RAT which I paid for, observe the wonderful support of BS:

Proof I had the RAT, tickets from last year asking for HWID reset... and getting it.

I paid for lifetime, but apparently that doesn't matter... worst support of any program I have ever had the misfortune to use, it was fine when xXvisceral was around but now it's gone to shit.

northman - October 11, 2012, 9:23 am

Support would be the last thing to concern yourself with on BS these days with bot's been hijacked and ransom-ware.

Also as Acamas said, the latest version is cracked, so if you still want to use it, then you can find it easily online.

D??M! - October 11, 2012, 1:55 pm

All lies aside, you may read this thread to inform yourself on any threat of backdoor.

There was a vulnerability in the 5.2 client that has been patched and repaired in the 5.3 release.

Any users who need support, feel free to PM me. I am back from a short couple days away from the computer.

Lets be honest here all trolling, and flaming aside.

Marijinz almost definitely just renamed it or moved it.

Only reason you can say it now is cause you heard Old say, him analysing it twice was enough he wont be doing it again.

Of course the websites down, sell Bshades and make your own instead of buying these shitty pieces of shit.

northman - October 11, 2012, 4:46 pm

Right, funny how you use the word exploit, but don't say for what it actually is. A backdoor coded in BlackShades.

Hackers or whoever, outside of BlackShades didn't put that code in there...they didn't exploit a bug in BS. It was coded in there by BS coder for your bot market.

Coder decided to remove the bot-market for some reason, but leaves the only function that could send commands to customers bots... this you call an exploit, hah!

mmm sweet wall-of-text :-P

A while back when BS customers bots start getting hijacked with ransom-ware, none of their other rats bots had an issue, you claim it's nothing related to BS, must be their own fault and so on.

Threads go up and a user shows a video that the BS login server from older version of BS (4.2), is able to send execute cmds to bot-market customers bots.

Is this the exploit? No they freely admit that it was a 'feature' of an old version of their login server that the current one does not have. Mmhmm..

Then another member, with experience in cracking, posts there is a command inside BS called "Market_exec" which is used to send commands to bot-market customers bots.

Strange, didn't they discontinue bot-market a year or so ago? Yes they did. Then why did they remove all other bot market features but leave this one feature in?

Laziness? Did the coder forget about it? Did some elite-shadowy-bogeyman hack them and insert it in? Or could it be because its such a powerful command the coder didn't want to remove it along with the other non-important bot-market commands that was removed....

Is this an exploit? No, the coder removed every other function related to bot-market but suspiciously left this in BS.

That same member then videoed himself examining BS to prove where the Market_exec command is in BS 5.2, and also explained what the function does.

Blackshades, an admin or mod or seller w/e, of BS then posts in their sales thread after a few days that in the next coming update "...all possible backdoor threats have been removed..".

Well guess what? When the 5.3 (first version) update was released, it was examined again and found that the Market_exec command was not there any more, instead it was changed into PING and its function was encrypted.

Hmmm is this an exploit? No, only the coder is able to change such things in the source code. And not only did he change it, he DISGUISED it. Who else would be able to update BS from 5.2->5.3? Me? BS Sellers? The cleaning lady?

Well they say it was a feature from the old bot-market, that it's completely innocent...yes, so very innocent that instead of removing it they disguise and encrypt it. Instead of saying "yes this might be an exploit we will remove it" and gain back their customers trust they DISGUISE and ENCRYPT it.

Now they call it an exploit, to detract the attention from them and place the blame on us members, or other rat developers, mysterious hacker, even the guy on the grassy-knoll could be next. Well ask yourself, do software developers leave what they call exploits in their software after being told about how dangerous it is? Do they DISGUISE and ENCRYPT them when told about it, still leaving it working? Then lie to their customer that there is no backdoor any more? No they remove them. So what does that tell you about BlackShades and their coder? Someone who is known to have backdoored other stuff (here).

And even recently, your own shills who were defending BS rat and so vehemently denying there ever was a backdoor now openly admit it in your own sales thread - when people ask them about the backdoor in your sales thread they say "thats Blackshade .NET not Java, you are confusing them".

I give it you that you might not have known about it or possibly any of the other staff, but marjinz, definitely knew about it.

And for you to continue to deny and lie about it, have threads closed, have posts deleted, defend the rat and him makes you just as culpable and bad as he is.

You can keep trying to desperately claw some income for your rent, apartment w/e, but "truth will out", and its here for all to see in your poor excuses, your attempts at blaming other people, attempts to damage other rats reputations to funnel them to BS, and the threads in my signature. Also cracked BS 5.3 is easily findable online, for those wanting to save money.

He hired me yesterday from today i have littarly worked 12 hours and i'm not lieing 12hours non stop being the only supporter that was answering the tickets that have been made. I was the only supporter online i worked my ass off for the customers they gave me a rating of average 4.67 of the 5. I was one day active and and answered 26 tickets got a lot of great feedback from the customers.

And do you know how this disgusting peace of shit repays me ? Just simply firing me...
