Its not for the fame really lol More for the challenge. We all use to do the same and hacked gaming forums or other small forums that were the homes to a lot of users and gamers. But it just became less exciting and easy, so we moved up a little more. Its way more fun and nothing feels better than when you realize that you can hack into these major websites ?

Seriously? No one gives a fuck. I hacked two of Harvard's sites and some skid took credit for my work. It's not even worth it anymore, too be honest.
