Are the views mobile views? Are they monetizable views?

Kentucky - October 25, 2012, 12:02 pm

Yes there monetizable views!!!! :D would you like to purchase views?

oBrandxn - October 25, 2012, 12:03 pm

Proof they're monetizable?

What do you use to give views out...?

Kentucky - October 25, 2012, 12:05 pm

What kind of proof do I post for tht?

And that's kinda secret lol. It's not a bot tho that's all I can say

Gerald Earl Gillum - October 25, 2012, 12:30 pm

Please post a screenshot of a video that you have done and show the analytics of the video, if they are mobile views they are not monetizable if they are not then they are monetizable.

DemonAsylum - October 25, 2012, 4:05 pm

If your views are monetizable than people who are partnered will make money off them as well as people with adsense. You give proof that they are monetizable by putting like 5k views on a new video and then going to the analytics of that video and showing that it says all 5k are monetizable.

Kentucky - October 25, 2012, 6:07 pm

Ohh ok I will do that! :p thanks didn't know what you ment at first!

Pepsi. - October 25, 2012, 6:09 pm

If you're using backlinks and redirects on that one website (name is on the tip of my tongue), then they are monetizable. My good friend uses that method and makes mad money on fiverr.

EDIT: Website is like the russian facebook.

oBrandxn - October 26, 2012, 1:57 am

If you use a bot they aren't going to be monetizable, just telling you now OP...

Gongoozle - October 26, 2012, 2:00 am

Sorry Im a noob guys, but what does: monetizable mean?

What does this term mean?

monetizable means human views not using bots for views :D

Good luck for sale OP ?

Actually that's not it at all. Monetizable means they are views people with adsense and or a partnership can make money off of. For instance, if someone is partnered with machinima and they get 2 dollars for every 1k monetizable views, than if they were to purchase 1k views from this guy, they should make 2 dollars off those views. However I doubt these views are monetizable, just saying.

Kentucky - October 26, 2012, 10:56 am

They are monetizable I will add 5k to one of my videos later I will explain to you how I do my YouTube views if you like.

If you want to make sales when claiming your views are monetizable you will need to give some proof. People who buy monetizable views, do it as they think they will make the money back plus some profit, therefor no one is going to take that risk of making the initial payment for views, unless they know its a definite pay back and profit. I am interested in how you are providing monetizable views so shoot me a PM if you wouldn't mind explaining how your going about it. Thanks.
