Thread: [? web crab 0.9 - the superior formgrabber !? \[C++ | All popular browsers | 9 kb bin\]](#)

pr0t0typ3 - November 22, 2012, 12:10 pm

About:

When I first posted about a new formgrabber being released in may, the thread attracted a lot of attention.

Because of many difficulties it took quite a while but finally after over 6 months of development it is here: 'web crab' - the superior formgrabber.

When creating this application the aim was clear: Take the quality of software released on Hackforums to level, higher than ever before, and I can promise that we achieved this goal.

Formgrabber Features:

Coded in C++ with various inline Assembly (no dependencies on CRT/.net)

- Full PE-Injection (No DLLs/Drops)

- Supports Windows XP/Vista/7 x64/x86

- Full Unicode-Support

- Average bin size ~ 9 kb (compressed)

- Supported Browsers (latest version and below)Google Chrome (HTTP & HTTPS)

- Mozilla Firefox (HTTP & HTTPS)

- Microsoft Internet Explorer (HTTP & HTTPS)

- Apple Safari (HTTP & HTTPS)

- Opera (HTTP)

- Grabs everything* from all listed browsers

Web-Panel Features:

Fake 404-Error to hide the panel

- Easy to setup

- Export logs to text document

- Blacklist hosts

- Search your logs

- Pictures \(Click to View\)

Pricing:

Package Contents:1 domain-locked executable of 'web crab'

- 1 'web crab' PHP-Panel Package

- Assistance with the setup of 'web crab'

- Free updates/bug-fixes

- Total: 75 $ (Liberty Reserve only)

Frequently Asked Questions:

What is a formgrabber ?You can find a very detailed guide on what a formgrabber is and how it works as well as a comparison between a keylogger, a formgrabber and a stealer in this thread.
Can I get a re-build if my domain gets banned ?If you can provide proof, that you domain is banned and completely inaccessible (not just temporarily suspended/deactivated) we will happily provide you a re-build for a small fee of 10 $ (Liberty Reserve only). Does 'web crab' come with hosting or a domain ?No, 'web crab' comes with neither of those for multiple reasons. First of all as it is in your own responsibility what you use 'web crab' for. Secondly a centralized hosting for all customers would be very vulnerable to DDos attacks as well as quite expensive comparatively to the small price of 'web crab'. Does 'web crab' come fully undetected ?No, 'web crab' is currently tagged by various Anti-Virus engines but instead of investing a lot of time providing every user a unique FUD executable we decided to rather focus on the more important aspects of stability and functionality.
Do you accept Paypal/Payza/WMZ/Bitcoins or any trades ?No, at the moment we are not able to accept any e-Currency except Liberty Reserve although we are working on a method to accept Paypal-Payments while reducing the fraud risk to a minimum.

Holy shit, if you could find a crypter with a stub size of maybe 20KB then you could easily fake this bot for an image because of the small file size. Good work Prototype. Good luck with sales.

Well knowing pr0t0typ3, I am more than sure this lives up to what he says it does in his post. And from there, I can not really see the point in paying hundreds for one from andro vs a HQ nicely working, not to mention cheaper, one right here..

Yes but well since I already have the Andromeda grabber, I was asking if there would be a point in buying this.

rangasux - November 23, 2012, 2:08 am

Hi guys I'm completely new to this but also very interested. How does one infect a certain webpage with this. It requires for someone to open it on the server, aye?

I know, I know. I'm noob.

Thanks alot,

As far as I know Andromeda only supports Firefox, Chrome and IE while web crab has a wider range of supported browsers. Andromeda also only saves results of host that are previously set while web crab does not limit your grabbing ability if you don't want it to: All logs are saved if they have not been blacklisted before.

I successful tested the first two crypters and more are about to be added to the list soon.

Price is fair, and parsing off data ? do you have a parser ?
and webinject will really motivate higher price.

(Nov 23, 2012 06:16 PM)betona Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Price is fair, and parsing off data ? do you have a parser ?
and webinject will really motivate higher price. Data is parsed and every parameter which has a value-length > 0 is saved. Therefore you can get every important parameter from any HTTP Post operation.

and GLWS :) "SSL in Browsers" is not very detailed.
SSL/TSL itself is just a cryptography layer over a "standard" application layer protocol like http, ftp, smtp, etc.
You asked if I could support SSL/TSL for other protocols than http and my question is what protocols you are looking to grab. "SSL in Browsers" is no answer to that.

Sahar - December 5, 2012, 1:20 pm

I'm sorry for making it unclear, SSL in Browsers, is HTTPS

As the definition for HTTPS is

"Hypertext Transfer Protocol Secure (HTTPS) is a widely used communications protocol for secure communication over a computer network, with especially wide deployment on the Internet. Technically, it is not a protocol in itself; rather, it is the result of simply layering the Hypertext Transfer Protocol (HTTP) on top of the SSL/TLS protocol, thus adding the security capabilities of SSL/TLS to standard HTTP communications."

Sorry again.

As for the people saying WebCrab has been leaked the truth is that Pr0t0 doesn't need to worry as the so called leaked is just 10% in stability compare to original version of WebCrab which means it's even worse than having a trial version of the product, so it will by the end serve as an advert for this great product, Everybody knew Old Warrior is not a bad fellow despite that he's a master cracker also NoNh is a good man as he mean no harm to WebCrab or HF. cheers.

Sure pr0t0 needs to improve the features. but I can guarantee you the cracked version isn't same with sale version as I've got both, tested both and compared.

Yes ofc the cracked version is not the same. It's cracked ! But it can do the main things like the original version so I guess this seller has a problem. Don't be sad that your software got cracked ! Be happy ! That means it's that important that other people actually spent some time cracking this !

And 4 the ones who are not sure wether to buy this or not : this software actually is a rather good fg that is why it got cracked cuz it attracted the attention of some people who want it and find it worth cracking. Plus if u buy i bet you will get the updates that the seller is talking about.

Are you going to make Windows 8 support as well?

I also hope you add file/proces/registry persistence and inject it into explorer.exe or the default browser, that would make it very hard to kill. It would also be great with user-mode rootkit to hide the process from task manager.

yes (usermode i.e ring3)

vouch for op.I never said anything like this. Please don't claim such things in my thread. I said that I'm thinking of including something similar into the formgrabber but I never said it was done.
