nxtBoard is what I, along with my partner in the endeavor hope to become a thriving community for internet marketers.

We welcome you to join us, and become part of the experience.

We have the funds to promote the forums heavily, but we'd like to get some post-flow on the site before we do such.

So we're holding some contests. We're giving away a user group, and upgrades to members who promote the forums to their friends, and post high quality content on the site.

In the future (Within a couple days actually) we're going to be doing IM Courses, where hopefully we can bring some new people into the scene of internet marketing and teach them how to support themselves online.

Does that sound like something you'd like to be a part of? Feel free to join up and be part of the experience.

For those wondering, my partner on the forums is 1337B345T3R, AKA Chloe MorteZ, owner of Elite Studios.

We may or may not (?) be doing a secret give away of 100$ to one person who steps up and becomes a top contributor on the forums.
