Good luck to everyone, great contest.

Hope the most HQ wins.

Why do you deserve l33t:I try to stay HQ, I help others and I have a proper language.

I have contributed to HF by:I've helped a lot of users in online monetizing(alpha's, beta's, l33t, ub3r), in getting accepted to f1l3ice or other networks.

I've posted some good working hacking programs without using POST/PM bullshit.

Also I've made a little contest.

Hope I will win, but if I don't, I will not be upset because that means that another user really deserved this.

Why do you Deserve l33t: I deserve l33t because I strive to keep hackforums an active, high-quality community; not only in my own posts, but in others aswell. I encourage high-quality posts. In fact, my current contest is an attempt to make the League of Legends section of the forum MORE HQ. Don't know if it will work, but it's worth a shot. I have been a member on HF since May 31st, 2008 and have since learned a lot. I try in every way possible to give back to the community.

Aside from my love for HackForums, I strongly believe in honesty and integrity in my personal life.

Why do you deserve l33t: I deserve l33t because a member since 2010 and i've helped many members in the past two years. A lot of my post are high quality and I would appreciate the l33t so I can also give back to the community. By like repping deserving members and having a bigger PM space.

I have contributed to HF by: I did do a cerberus rat tutorial but now thats outdated. But currently I help individual members who are in need of help, as you can see by the comments in my reputation. I also help my friend Coding4Noobs the creator of Emissary Solutions .Net rat as his part of his support team helping members who are in need of support. I've also helped a lot of people in old usergroups.

I know I didn't really contribute a lot but I try helping when I can.

Kenny West - November 6, 2012, 5:07 pm

Great contest, I would suggest you change that last text's ("Contest Closes..") color, it's hard to read.

Why do you deserve l33t: I feel I could contribute to the community even more. With l33t I can change my threads at any time (which is useful for any worthy threads). I won't be treated like a fool just because I am a member trying to contribute. My grammar is far more efficient than most on here so one more l33t with proper grammar is not necessarily a bad thing.

I have contributed to HF by: Nothing specific really, just glance at my posts. I have plans on contributing a lot more than just posts.

best of luck to everyone who enters!

Why do you deserve l33t: I have tried my best to be HQ and give back to the community. I have recently achieved 1k posts. I try to help out new users who need help and I'm not rude to anyone. I cannot afford l33t right now, so winning this would be awesome!

I have contributed to HF by: I have posted a few Minecraft tutorials, and I have helped out numerous members around the forums. Here are some of my threads:

I have contributed to HF by: I have done some twitter follower giveaways and I play with people in the gaming sections,

I have contributed to HF by: Hosting contests and giving away a lot of Xbox stuff. I help any member who I can. Usually in gaming section or computer related.

Rally the Bulls - November 9, 2012, 1:51 am

I'll be resigning from the contest, as I have won another and have already been upgraded to I33t. Thanks for the contest, and good luck to everyone applying.

Thomas446 - November 9, 2012, 5:20 am

Why do you deserve to be upgraded over all other applicants?: I have been an HF member for only 2/3 a year, but i think it is a great forum. The only bad part is it is so sad when i see a HQ member with 0 rep, and a TON of LQ people getting rep for "Welcome to HF!". If i was L33t, i would give +rep to those HQ members. I always am helpful to people, and i don't ask for too much. I have a few HELPFUL THREADS, but I have A LOT of helpful posts. Also, People listen to I33t. I was scammed out of a I33t contest. If i was I33t, i could have neutral repped that person as a scammer. I also have done a few contests of my own. All together, I think I am a pretty HQ member, and I deserve I33t.

Also, Thanks for the contest!

Why do you deserve I33t:

I belive I am a fairly HQ member, I help others and use HF to gain more knowledge.

I am interested in GFX and would love to be I33t so I can help more members, get noticed for helping, give support and reward others.

I would be very honoured, happy and excited to find out if I won.

As always, good luck to all!

And what better way to celebrate my 1 year HF anniversary than to win I33t!

I have contributed to HF by:

Why do you deserve l33t: I always try to be nice and kind. I also help anyone who needs help. I do free animated GFX which asks a lot of time! It is funny how I can make an animated signature for myself too but I can't use it ... I also need the room for more PM's, I have to delete almost everything everyday xP (and I like Naruto but thats not really a reason, is it Akatsuki? xD)

Other than that I am also very active! Good luck to everyone in the contest!

Why do you deserve l33t: I deserve l33t because I have contributed a lot to HF and believe I would be able to contribute more, faster, easier, and better if I were a L33T member. I never win these things, and I'm not looking for attention, I just wish I could win an upgrade. I would pay for it, but I have other things I need to spend money on. I try to give back to the community as much as I can, but sometimes it just doesn't work out the way you want it to. Whether it's people not following rules, not enough people or just people being rude, it's hard to do contests. Good luck to all who enter this contest!
