Thread: TUTORIAL: How To Set Up Automated SMS Spam To A Phone Number Every Day

milkchar - November 6, 2012, 7:35 pm

This method is very simple, and uses daily email newsletters to spam someone

This Simple method can be done to both emails and phone numbers. Ever gotten spam emails? Know how they can relentlessly come and seem impossible to get rid of?

Basically, all you are doing is taking a phone number with its carriers email suffix, and signing it up for newsletters. The mailers will treat the phone number as an email, and send news letters to it.

How To Do It

1. Enter the victims phone number here

2. Find the victims carrier on This sites list or Google it. Add the suffix so that the phone number looks like 555-555-5555@carriersuffix.com

(Optional) 3. Enter the phone adress to as many sites on This list of daily news letters. (Thank 4chans PartyVan and The insurgency wiki for that list)

4. Download and run this wonderful program that automatically signs the email up to hundreds of news letters from various sites. Enter the phone number there too.

And that is all there is to it. The victim will receive spam emails and newsletters to their phone daily, and will have to unsubscribe from each one individually. Using Spam-Me, this would take forever.

I did not create spam-me, freervercell, or the list of news letter sites. Those where created by hardworking internet users so that people like me and you have useful resources to go to when doing things like this.

Best of luck, have fun, and if you have any questions, please feel free to comment.

Any country. Just find their carrier using the site I gave and then google "How to email a (phone carrier) phone"

I personally ran the program myself and have had no problems with it. I also have trend Micro and Norton.

Maybe if you read the entire thing, you would see I take no credit for the program or sites I gave. I'll add "Download at your own risk" in big red letters so that people like you don't miss it.

I'm a little busy with some doom stuff at the moment, but I'll try to get something about it done. Very sorry.
