Just a couple of things...

I vouched for the old version, I haven't tried this version.

Also, getting someone to host your thread won't work because they will get praise for it and you won't.

The Spammer didn't just crash they're skype, but pretty much my whole computer..

I put the message as 'hey' with interval 5 seconds then pressed spam and opened the target chat box.. afterwards it wouldn't let me open your program so I could press stop and when I opened HF I was getting the spam message 'hey' in the reply box lol ?

Yeah I did do that then ended in task manager and all was good, I just wasn't sure if the crashing on my side was a bug or just inevitable.

Program itself is really useful, nice work.

Yes im currently having issues with the Skype API.... It was leaked, i'll update the program within a day or two and give you the new download link.

What should i add to next update?

Any Idea's ?

It's already so good what with everything you added. I was satisfied with just the first version when you released another one it was just mind blowing. The only thing i would recommend is adding a better geo ip if you could because it tends to be massively off from the person location. But if that is not possible the only thing i could recommend is putting in a booter, but if you did that i'm sure people would pay for it. I'm just throwing out suggestions so feel free to do whatever you want with it. I'm already impressed that this is free and how you are giving back to HF. You are a great member. hope the API issue gets fixed soon and Keep up the great work!

The Geo IP is not massively off it always locates the person at the right location or near him. You see its almost impossible to locate someone 100% sometimes it locates the company/place where you connect too for example if you have AT&T you connect to it to get internet at your home so i believe sometimes instead of locating your exact address it locates the place where you are getting your connection from... But i will try to make it more accurate and thanks for the report. :)

Btw about the booter i'm not really sure bout it since i don't really even know how booters really work... ? but if you have someone who would be willing to help me with that i could add it.
