Hello guys.

Seeing how this bastard has scammed multiple members of the forum and over $1500+, I have gone out of my way for you guys to find his information and I have submitted a report to SOCA. This guy is going to pay for what he did.

You can also report him to;

Had a chat with an agent on live chat & they said even if it was done off eBay, if he took money off you and didn't delivery you can file a complaint. Pretty sure that's not his real name though, but if enough people complain they'll probably look into his Skype name / e-mail.

Really? I didn't know protecting scammers was such a strict rule here. The proof is overwhelming and instead of banning him, you are protecting him.

Thats fine, SOCA will be doing their jobs.

Thanks, I will look into this too. I've tried Interpol but their websites sucks. I'll look into it.

I know SOCA are good at dealing with stuff like this as I have reported something to them before.

The amount of people that I've reported with the link you posted is unbelievable.

Yes, and they never did something, so ...

Also, do you think they will care for 1500$?

To be honest I doubt it, they care for fraud reports regarding British currency. If the guy is from the US then they won't care about it.
