In the meantime KoKo uses her quantum Computer to alter the maps of the elite Night Nine. They get misled while KoKo and the others escape unhurt (Except for Lutz who gets shot in the ass again xD).

In the next scene KoKo explains her plan Jormungand. She wants to make world peace by immobilizing all airplanes rockets etc. She is planning to do this with her Quantum Computer and 126 satellites. After hearing the plan Jonah asks how many victims there will be. KoKo answers : " Around 700.000 people that are currently in the air ". Upon hearing that Jonah lost it and points his gun at KoKo. I expect many action/drama in the next episode, really looking forward to it ?.

Jormungand is just amazing. Every single character is so damn likable (this is hard to pull off), it has good animation and action sequence, and last but not least an amazing plot. Undoubtedly beat all of it's theme-twins awhile ago, Black Lagoon included. Sad to see this getting no responses at all, while the SAO threads get spammed to 10+ pages more often than not..

I have personally not watched the newest episode yet, but I read all currently released volumes of the manga 4 times over on my vacation to Boston last year. Believe it.

Looks very interesting. Too bad I have 5 exams in January that I need to revise for. No anime over Christmas for me :(.
