Thread: Make \$ by answering hacking related questions

icuruok - December 27, 2012, 1:06 pm

I have created a website service that allows people the get online help/assistance on hacking related questions. It's a service to help new hackers or people wanting to learn new things on hacking. The service is both helpfull for hackers & people learning to hack. The support members signed up on the site will be paid depending on how much help they offer. I will display the payments in the website support panel section, So once logged in as a support member you can see how much you could earn. The earnings will be split into three sections the support member in first gets the top earnings & second gets a little lower earning & so on.

The website service is www.hackingsupport.com

If you would like a support member account please PM me & I will create a login for you with a temp password that you must change.

In total there are 5 paying members using this service but I'm sure more will sign up soon, it's a pretty new service. I might try to embed some kind of member referral into the website later.

Back to the old over-used quote, yet still legit

A great Hacker once said "Don't learn to hack, hack to learn"

I have updated our service & made the system more automatic with a affiliate system. If you would like to sign up for a staff account on hackingsupport.com go to

<http://hackingsupport.com/signup.php>

You can earn $5.00 USD for each new subscriber you send to our service. I hope I made it easy to get paid to awnser hacking related questions, Or even to get quality dedicated help on hacking.

This site is pretty amazing, I would love to answer questions all day. You should do a free question bonus for referrals or something and make it harder to become staff lol.

Once you get 5 subscribers to sign up under your affiliate link I will pay for your l33t upgrade.
