I hope it isn't too much of a spoiler but this type of xss should be executed from multiple tabs for maximum efficiency ;)

It causes the webpage to load at three second intervals constantly and bogs the server down, over time rendering it disabled.

Done. ?

Gpure - December 30, 2012, 10:03 pm

Very simple

The Reason why you dont see much XSS challenges anymore is, that to easy challenges like putting `<script>alert(1)</script>` in a search box are just shit, and no challenges at all... Challenges like the ones i'm talking off will get deleted....

Haven't tested it, but i hope your's is atleast not one of theese ?

EDIT: Took it right after my first posting here - a thirty seconds later i found it - this no challenge at all...!

It's a nice intention to share with other people, but please post no "Low hanging Fruits" in future anymore or post them in the beginners hacking section.

EDIT2: Thanks for moving ;)

Greets, Gee.

Acivetix - February 1, 2013, 12:04 pm

Challenge? This is one of the easiest "challenges" ever.

Oh good, the crappy threads from WFH section are being dumped here.

Just delete/junk them. ???

Spoiler \(Click to View\)This isn't, and never will be, a challenge.

zombiehacker - February 1, 2013, 4:25 pm

This was simple but fun not really.

KillerHelper - April 14, 2013, 3:55 am

Easy...
