

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How to change from animation \(frames\) to animation\(timeline\) in cs5

DaddyLongDiddle - January 6, 2013, 6:52 pm

So I'm following a tutorial on how to make the shine effect.... and I need to change from animation(frames) to animation(timeline).

On the tutorial it says to click the little box in upper right hand corner of the animation section and select convert to timeline. I clicked where he said to, but there wasn't that as an option.

I have already searched google for like half an hour but to no luck.

Please help!

(I am using cs5)

Anal Voyage. - January 6, 2013, 7:01 pm

Click that thingy on the animation window.

DaddyLongDiddle - January 6, 2013, 7:10 pm

Those are the only options I am given when I click that :P

Baghead - January 7, 2013, 4:16 am

There should be a little button with three squares in the bottom of the timeline box somewhere. Not sure though because I'm still runnin' Cs4

? THEINsPIREDONE - January 7, 2013, 4:42 am

Seems you're not running the Extended version of Photoshop. I had the same problem when I was using the Standard version.

Anal Voyage. - January 7, 2013, 11:12 am

I think White Rabbit has it.

It's easier to get a hold of than reg CS5 by far.

DaddyLongDiddle - January 7, 2013, 1:30 pm

D: Just spent so long downloading and installing it :(Anyone PM me with a cracked version? :3

Zoobiker - January 7, 2013, 8:12 pm

(Jan 7, 2013 02:30 PM)Iciclous Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) D: Just spent so long downloading and installing it :(Anyone PM me with a cracked version? :3

If you would like a good cracked version I would suggest going to pirate bay and searching the adobe product that you want and find the ones that are released by "thethingy" I only use his cracks for adobe and they ALWAYS work.