Thread: Kara no Kyoukai: Mirai Fukuin - PV is out!

Rakshasa - January 16, 2013, 9:10 am

The PV for the newest upcoming addition to the Kara no Kyoukai film series; Mirai Fukuin (lit. The Future's Gospel) just got released today. The film is an adaptation of a side-story to the Kara no Kyoukai novel series, and depicts the events that take place after the main story.

I've personally been painfully waiting for this movie for a very long time, as I absolutely loved the novels. Now that the PV is out it seems like there won't be too long until it'll be released, and then soon enough subbed. ^^ Also as seen in this PV, ufotable does not disappoint when it comes to animation quality. May I add that this movie includes a new character named Ryougi Mana, and you guys can guess her relevance to the story.

The story is divided into two different parts;

Möbius ring

It's about two psychics, Shizune Seo and Mitsuru Kamekura, who can foresee the future. Shizune was sick of her predictable boring life and Meruka became a professional bomber taking advantage of his supernatural power. When Shizune met Mikiya and when Meruka met Shiki, their immutable future started to change.

Taking place ten years after the events of Kara no Kyoukai, Ryougi Mana, Shiki's daughter, spends the day with Mitsuru Kamekura.

Enjoy and discuss.

Honestly really hyped to see this. Great PV on their behalf, almost as good as the one for kizumonogatari.

Aye ufotable doesn't disappoint. Very well done PV too.

Kinda expected this to get a bit more attention, considering it literally just got released earlier today. Ahh well, this is AA anyways. What can I expect.

It's always good to see more Kara no Kyoukai, let's just hope it doesn't take forever for the air date to be announced.
