YOU NO LONGER NEED TO POST IN ORDER TO RECEIVE HELP. IT IS APPRECIATED, HOWEVER.

DO NOT HELP OTHERS IF YOU ARE NOT APART OF THE RAT HELP DESK. THIS IS NOT A RAT LOUNGE. GO MAKE YOUR OWN THREAD.

We do not give test installs. To test your server, use Anubis. (Unencrypted Servers Only, Anubis distributes samples + crypted ones do not work.)

We recommend you use Darkcomet RAT. A tutorial for it can be found here.

We also recommend you use CryptME. (No dependencies, FUD, coded in AutoIt. (Not SHIT .NET.)

(Active Helper.)

We did. We had our thread layout a little screwed up and we didn't have it how we wanted it to look. I junked it.

EDIT: Also, thank you for the vouch.

What RAT program are you currently using?: Jrat

Problem: (Be specific.) It's not working.

My port is open, I'm pretty sure I'm using the right server settings, my DNS on NO-IP is updated using DUC. I even get a connection attempt in the rat when I check my port on canyouseeme.org.

Have Teamviewer?: I think so, yes

Super fast response, and got it working pretty fast. Thank you

Test installs are a bit iffy, at least for me. I only have a few slaves. (High priority ones, family members.) and therefore cannot give them away. Though if I watch your screen over Teamviewer, I'll happily run your server in Sandboxie. As well, I could pitch you a few spreading methods. :D

Thanks in advance!

potless - January 29, 2013, 12:05 pm

I need to bind a netwire host for mac to a pdf or jpeg but can't figure out how to do it, since whenever the "file" even if it is a zipped file is opened on the mac it leaves a 4k "Host" application in the downloads which is kind of obvious. Any suggestions how to bind the netwire host for mac which is a "folder" with contents etc so it can be emailed out? The mac host is quite different from the Windows host so please bare that in mind please but any suggestions welcomed.

PM me. I'll take a crack at it. If I fail, you might as well invest in a VPN which opens ports.

Dreamer223 Wrote:Hello,

If you are talking about binders, I believe that RAT's can bind files larger than 1 megabyte, yes.

SIEG.FRIED Wrote:Are there still PHP Rat's available?

I have heard of VertexNet and LokiRAT but I personally have not used them.

What are you defining as "Host"? Your RAT server? If you wish to bind it to a .jpg/.pdf, you must use a binder. Be aware that binders increase the detection rate and the extension will still be a .exe. I am not sure what the second part of your comment is referencing, please be specific.

Am I able to join the help desk? I have knowledge about Blackshades NET & Stealth as well as jRat and DarkComet. I can also provide GFX.

potless - January 29, 2013, 12:32 pm

yes by host I mean the server. That is what it is called in Netwire by default. When netwire creates the Host/server for a mac it actually creates a folder called Host.app which contains another folder called Contents which contains a PList File called Info.plist and a folder called MacOS which contains a file called Host. Basically you have to zip the Host.app folder and deliver it to the recipient. Problem xProtect does not let you crypt the Host.app folder and I am having trouble binding the folder so that when it is opened it is not just sitting there for all to see. Also once the bound folder is opened the Host application needs to be double clicked on the Mac by the recipient which is unlikely to happen and rather defeats the whole point of trying to hide it. Also a Mac user is never ever going to open a .exe file even if they are as high as a kite! :) This is what I meant by the netwire server/host for the mac is quite different from the windows version and different technics are necessary to hide/deliver/install it. I dont think crypting it is an issue but just delivering it and installing it is.

This is a difficult problem. The only binders I know of only bind two executable windows files together, keeping it a .exe. I, myself, am not familiar with exactly how Netwire RAT's Macs, I am only familiar with the Windows Portion. You might wanna PM Nightm@re to see if he is better at that than me, or even Kohsti himself. I am sorry I am not knowledgeable about that specific issue.

I'm sure anybody in this RAT crew will tell you the following:

You crypt the stub. This can either be done from a crypter from Cryptography, Encryption, and Decryption or from the Premium Sellers subforum of the HF Marketplace. You then need to spread. I'd recommend Youtube for this. Rip Youtube Videos, reupload them, putting your crypted RAT's link in the description. This will get you maybe 1-2 slaves a day, if you're lucky. Also, Ewhoring. Change the extension to a .scr (Uncheck Hide Known Extensions from Folder Options) and change the icon to an image. Start pretending to be a girl in sex chats and when they ask you for a pic, you link them to that.

Omegle. Same with Ewhoring, pretend to be a girl and when they ask for a pic, send them a link to your crypted RAT.

the1killer502 Wrote:i vouch for takai he is beast hope not a girl

I assisted you on my Skype I used to Ewhore on. I still spread that way. It has been successful for me. For all future clarification, I'm a guy.

Personally, I would recommend darkcomet to use as a free RAT.

There is no such thing as a 'good' free crypter, and i dont think any member of the help desk will buy you a crypter either..

Thanks to Lakai for helping me set up my RAT :D

trq123 - February 3, 2013, 5:29 pm

Lakai was extremely fast and efficient. She explained the steps on how to setup my RAT thoroughly and simplistically. It took around fifteen minutes for me to learn what had taken me a week of constant researching. Not only did she help me with my RAT, I was able to ask many other questions that bettered my understanding of Blackshades. Seeing how she could handle teaching me the ways of Blackshades Stealth (Which Lakai is unfamiliar with) I can only imagine how helpful she can be towards teach the listed programs on this thread.

Thanks Lakai!

Well, I have a question about DarkComet:

What does Firewall Bypass do in DC?

I don't know what this really means. Can somebody explain?

Why should you untick this if you use a crypter? Is this similar to injection option in CyberGate? In Cybergate, if you inject into default browser for example, doesn't it make the server shut down if the browser isn't working?

I, personally, do not recommend crypters I have not used. IE: All of them. I don't do this because when I DID do it, I recommended crypters I hadn't used and I didn't know that they were actually...crap. I don't want to do that again, so therefore I don't recommend any specific crypter. One of the other helpers may have an option though. PM one of them.

(Feb 10, 2013 06:15 PM)JustArtistic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Question: What does 'No dependencies' mean for crypt.

That the server won't require anything, such as .NET, to be run.

If it doesn't that means regardless of what your target has on their PC, the stub will run.

If it does then they target must have certain things installed to have the stub run.

This is not a problem. It's a feature of your router; NAT Loopback. Most routers don't have it/don't have it enabled as it's a security threat. Use "127.0.0.1" if you wish to infect yourself. Put it in the IP/DNS field.

Problem:

- any advice on how to infect targeted hosts given only their email addresses?
- what are your recommended settings for DarkComet to make it fully work with Infinity crypter and bound to a jpeg file?

-- I'm having a problem with Avast when trying to test opening the server on a computer with Avast installed (potential host). It doesn't get detected as a virus (proactive & on demand scans). However, when I actually double click on the server (trying to infect the computer), Avast blocks execution. I'm thinking it might be some setting related to DC or the Infinity crypter setup.

To start you need to uninstall your AV's, disable Firewalls, and any other protection you're using - they will only block ports and delete your files.

Spoofing wise, when you do spoof a .exe the exe part will go into the file name. So "Server.exe" turns into "Serverexe.jpg". Remember that if you're trying to spoof things.

Make sure to crypt before you bind as well. Also use minimalist settings with startup unchecked when crypting.

AV is uninstalled. The screenshot above is on the victim's computer. As I mentioned, Avast did not detect it as a virus during proactive / on demand scan. However, that appeared when the victim executed the file.

Regarding the spoof, Avast is giving a warning for spoofed files on the victim as well.

Then that means the crypter isn't FUD- it only has scantime FUD and not runtime. Spoofing won't do anything to hide that it's a virus.

Thanks so much!

First: You cannot infect a slave using just an email address. Though, you can infect them with a JDB which you can send an email to link to. But not just with an email.

Second: This is an issue with avast called Runtime and Scantime detection. The stub is scantime FUD to Avast, but not runtime.

Third: I would not recommend using a spoofer. It only "works" in Skype and it will break if you upload it anywhere. Instead, change the file extension to a .scr. It will still be executable and will be marked by Windows as a "Screen Saver."

<http://windows.microsoft.com/en-US/windows-vista/Show-or-hide-file-name-extensions>

Frostix Wrote:To start you need to uninstall your AV's, disable Firewalls, and any other protection you're using - they will only block ports and delete your files.

Spoofing wise, when you do spoof a .exe the exe part will go into the file name. So "Server.exe" turns into "Serverexe.jpg". Remember that if you're trying to spoof things.

Make sure to crypt before you bind as well. Also use minimalist settings with startup unchecked when crypting.

Indeed. Though binders increase the detection rate, some.

Yeah, it's probably your settings. Server Module -> Minimalist -> Uncheck "Start the stub with Windows" -> Don't use an icon -> Build Normal -> Crypt that instead.

nullend_void Wrote:AV is uninstalled. The screenshot above is on the slave's computer. As I mentioned, Avast did not detect it as a virus during proactive / on demand scan. However, that appeared when the slave executed the file.

Regarding the spoof, Avast is giving a warning for spoofed files on the slave as well.
You need a crypter which is runtime FUD, apparently Infinity Crypter is not.

Frostix Wrote:Then that means the crypter isn't FUD- it only has scantime FUD and not runtime. Spoofing won't do anything to hide that it's a virus.
Indeed.

Using: Darkcomet

Problem: So I used this thread <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2698687> and it was amazing, perfect noob friendly tut, but I'm having trouble with it. I made the rat and now that I have ratted a few people, I am not able to reconnect to them :(

Either the connection between us just breaks randomly, or they shut off their computer and my rat never reconnects to them again.

Note: I used the "automatic port forward" option in Darkcomet and I didn't do anything in my router could that be it? Or does it sound unlikely? Because I went to canyouseeme and they said the port was good.

Could it just be that I need to just start over with a new rat and remake everything? Just to see if it works? Maybe it was just some random bug? I'm just really confused, and I was wondering if you could help me out. (I'm using a FUD crypter) :P

tl;dr I can't reconnect to my slaves.

It could be any number of things; Most common, Windows Firewall (Make sure it is OFF.) and make sure Darkcomet is open and listening to the port when you test it on canyouseeme.org. (Will provide a false negative if it not.)

Dr. King Schultz - February 26, 2013, 8:36 am

I just purchased FoxyJava and I've asked the owner but he seems busy so I am posting here as well.

It seems as though the website cloner is not working. The index file included with my java files is either blank or has something like this in the header.

<script language="javascript" src="UDCydfdsf51.js"></script>

The page I want to clone does not appear at all. The title of the page just says "Welcome" and is blank. So, I tried to do it manually by taking the source of the page I wanted to use and copying and pasting that code above into the header. It did the same thing, ignored all of the source code and showed me a blank page.

Can someone help me please? I need to set this up ASAP.

Our RAT service is entirely free. Also, ApexDC is a bit of an outdated spreading method imho.

Another thing to note, if you're going to be ratting for a significant amount of time, I would recommend buying a crypter. Though, if you only intend to RAT for only one person, or just a few people, I would just buy a crypt. You can also find free crypters, but they are always lesser quality.

You can hide it in a form of a text document by doing the following:

Spoofing the executable to .txt and changing the icon to the .txt icon.

With a RAT (remote administration tool) you can monitor the actions of your victims very easily, such as viewing their desktop and viewing the logs from the keylogger.

It's likely your crypter corrupted your server due to your RAT settings. Make sure it as follows;
Server Module -> Minimalist -> Fill out details -> Uncheck "Start the stub with windows" -> No icon
-> Build Normal -> Crypt that instead. (Don't forget adding it to startup on the crypter.)

You can change the icon to that of a .txt, and I believe you could also make it look like it via a binding method involving a shortcut...gonna try to find it. I'm sure I have it somewhere.

It's rather selfish to think about, I allowed people from my own thread as well to jump in and help someone in need.

I apologize that you do not like others assisting in your thread, it won't happen again. I was simply trying to help out.

I cannot guarantee the 100% accuracy of your advice, since you are not apart of the help desk. I have not personally evaluated you nor know you personally nor anything related. That's why I don't want than official helpers and myself assisting.

Hi!

I have a question, didn't find any answer anywhere else so here we go:

Some crypters "require .NET Framework", what does that mean?

Im trying to get some more knowledge of RATting, and I have loads of other questions. I'll PM one of you when my postcount is above 10.

Cheers

Hm that may be correct, however I think it's C# (or maybe both..), as I noticed one of the crypters was coded in C# and required .NET Framework ?

So lets say I use DarkComet, then I will need a crypter that support the code of the RAT or preferable a crypter with NO dependencies?

If the crypter is compatible with darkcomet (should say on the sales thread) It will work with darkcomet, just use the settings it suggests.

They require Microsoft's .NET Framework in order to execute the crypted stub.

Most, if not all crypters support Darkcomet; it's pretty much the standard. I wouldn't worry about that. But in response to dependencies, no dependencies is always better. But if not, Most Windows PCs already have it preinstalled.

ClapTrap™ Wrote:If the crypter is compatible with darkcomet (should say on the sales thread) It will work with darkcomet, just use the settings it suggests.

99% of crypters will work for Darkcomet. I wouldn't worry about it.

Are you sure your Windows Firewall and antiviruses are uninstalled/disabled. Also make sure your RAT is open and listening to the port, else it will appear closed even if it's open. (False reading.)

I believe Netwire has a simple and easy to use reverse proxy feature. Darkcomet also has it, but it is incredibly difficult to use. A tutorial for setting one up, not from a RAT, can be found here:

Hey guys, I have a question that I've posted around on others, haven't really gotten much help.

What RAT program are you currently using?: DarkComet
Problem: Downloading it (More info below)
Teamviewer: No, trust issues.

So basically, I'm having trouble downloading the RAT itself. I've done the following things: Disabled AV

Disabled Firewall
* Disabled malicious program/phishing on Chrome

I've tried Chrome, Firefox, and IE- No dice. The problem is with some "Windows Attachment Manager". It completely blocks the download, and I can't force it. There isn't much help on google, as I can't access the "Local Group Policy Editor" (Which seems to be the only way to change it) because I don't have Windows Professional and above. How can I download this RAT? I've tried for hours.

Here is what its like after I've disabled all the above: <https://i.imgur.com/TplZKx5.png>

That's probably why. If you don't crypt, then it will show on 9/10 slaves' antiviruses. You have to crypt it in order to receive the maximum amount of slaves.

I would say the latter. Some crypters are plain crap, contact the developers and let them know. Just add an exception/disable it.

I don't recommend any specific crypter over another. This is due to liability reasons. IE: You said this crypter was good, but it's actually crap, you suck.

It opened myself as a new slave in DC.

After crypting my stub with Tyna Crypter and opening it in sandbox it gave an error:

SBIE2205 Service not implemented: WMI StdRegProv::SetStringValue

SBIE2205 Service not implemented: WMI IWbemServices 24

Removed some leftover AV that was still dormant on my drive and retried the crypted Stub.

No errors. But it also didnt open myself as a slave in DCRAT like it did with the unencrypted version. Did the crypt break the stub?

Every download does not mean a slave. It is to be used as a guide, only. Make sure that you are using your No-ip DNS in the IP/DNS field.

Make sure your RAT is open and listening to the port before you check on canyouseeme.org. Also make sure Windows Firewall + All other AVs/Firewalls are COMPLETELY OFF. If this fails, PM Me.

Don't buy a RAT. Use Darkcomet and just buy a crypter. A sleek, shiny RAT is NOTHING without a crypter. I wouldn't recommend using a Keylogger.

Find a direct hosting site, I use <http://www.virushostr.ws>. Upload your crypted stub. Right click the slave -> Extra Broadcast Options -> Mass Download -> Paste the link. Others can just give you a direct link and you do what I just stated, and they could have the slave as well.

The slave's Internet connection sucks or yours does. Your crypter partially corrupted it, their AV is catching it. (Rare) demonbarrage Wrote:I have a question, how do I crypt a server and what is crypting a server used for? (Just finished installing my RAT.) I'm using DarkComet 5.3.1.

By using a crypter.

To make it undetectable by AVs.

It's screenshots, but it has the intervals of video, it also depends on your Internet connection + your slaves.

nVPN supports open ports, and it seems to be popular on HF. I haven't used it, personally.

Yes, Blackshades has audio capture, so yes.

Your RAT settings likely corrupted the stub. Use the following settings: Server Module -> Minimalist -> Uncheck "Start the stub with Windows" -> No icon -> Build Normal -> Crypt that instead. (Don't forget to add startup on your crypter.)

Make sure to PM me. PMs are a higher priority than posts. (Plus posts are not even required, the thread template is just old.) Also, make sure Darkcomet is open and listening to the port, else it will show it's closed even if it's open.

There is no "Best" crypter like there is no "Best" car. It depends on what your needs are. I can only speak on File Protector because it's the only paid crypter I have personally used. It's pretty good, especially for people who don't know how to use a crypter, and pretty self explanatory.

For free...Tyna. Free crypters are not FUD and are just better than nothing. Don't expect to get a lot of slaves via Tyna.

Problem: (Be specific.) I believe I'm doing everything right but it does not work. I'm 99% sure the port forwarding works as I used canyouseeme but I tested it on my self and no luck and I got someone to send it to 5 people and no one showed up. I had it crypted by someone and what's the chances all of those 5 people's AV detected it? I don't think my server is working. So pretty much I need someone to take a look and see if I'm doing it right and maybe even once they got me to make a better server they can re-crypt it as I don't think that other person will do it again for me. Thanks in advance.

Make sure that Darkcomet is open and listening to the port, else it will show as closed even if it's open.

1. NAT Loopback. (Test it in Anubis, instructions are located in the first post, at the top.)
2. Crypter corrupted the stub. Use the following settings: Server Module -> Minimalist -> Fill out details -> Uncheck "Start the stub with Windows -> No icon -> Build Normal -> Crypt that instead. Don't forget to add startup ON YOUR CRYPTER.

To test your server, use Anubis. (Uncrypted Servers Only, Anubis distributes samples + crypted ones do not work.)

I use ByteCrypter. It is good, but not really FUD. Which crypter do you advise?

I dont want to leave traceback. What should i do? VPN? if yes which one, if no than what?

Well it couldn't be whitehat. There is nothing about it that would be considered doing good or helping the person. Unless you intentionally infected them to maybe clean there computer from viruses.

RATs can also be used if you want to manage your computer from somewhere else, for example, when you're on vacation. Is it greyhat, white hat, or black hat? It depends on how you use it.

We do not recommend specific crypters. (As we haven't used most paid crypters.) For free? Tyna Crypter. It's nowhere NEAR FUD though.

Teamviewer is a RAT. Did you know that? If someone used Teamviewer to access your computer, somehow, remotely, without your knowledge. Would you consider that Blackhat? Answer your own question. It depends.

Likely due to NAT Loopback. Follow instructions in the original post for testing in Anubis. (It's at the top.)

1.) DarkComet

Problem:

2.) I've setup DarkComet after following a tutorial on here, but when I infect myself I don't show up in the connections. Does that mean it isn't working? I don't have any anti-virus installed and it says my port is open (More on this below). I'm pretty sure no-ip etc is all setup correctly other then the fact that the DarkComets built in no-ip isn't working so I done it the other way by downloading no-ip duc.

Have Teamviewer?:

3.) Yes! Support is greatly appreciated if we can't find an answer here.

Other:

4.) If I don't have DarkComet open it says that the port is closed. I've went to my router and set it up but I have probably made a mistake somewhere. The reason the port is open when DarkComet is open is due to the auto port forwarding with UpNP or at least that is what I think it is.

What do you do if you are using dynamic IP by ISP or VPN and you are ratting? Do you need static IP so it will work?

I wonder this because i use dynamic IP and do have VPN but would the "NO-ip duc" work for me? I mean will it redict all installs/users/slaves to the no-ip.org site then go trough to me even if my IP is changed?

ADD; i guess im correct.

I wonder one more thing, how do i update my server.exe in the slave when i want to refud the server.exe?

Yes. For Darkcomet: Right Click -> Extra Broadcast Options -> Mass Download -> Direct link to your stub. -> MUST BE A DIRECT LINK.

Hi guys, im don't know if i have well configured my server.exe of DC, but when the slaves accept it, works fine(passwords, cam, etc), but i saw here a lot of people that have slaves during a large period of time.

Maybe i forgot some essential?

Also i only found people that have anti-virus software, and i need to talk a lot with them to make them disconect it, and accept my binded server.

I cant find any working crypter, the only1 that i found is FUDCrypter, and AV still detecting it...so im sending the server binded to a jpg photo, and changed the extension that seems a .jpg, but its working when they accept.

What RAT program are you currently using?: DC 5.2 (running on a Vmware virtual machine, win7 ult)

Problem: Had or have some slaves(i dunno, that's the point), i talked to them to swith off the anti-virus, they agree, and got my server working on them, but in a week, i never saw them again.

Hello guys, now I HAD been using DarkComet for about a week now, so I was very familiar with it until I met this worst problem of my hacking career :(

My comp was laggy, so I simply restarted the computer, when I did so, I had 7 SLAVES online, and after that, 0. None of the slaves SHOW ON MY DC anymore, not EVEN MYSELF! I even made a new stub to test it on myself, I even opened it, it doesn't even show myself on my own DC... now I really need help, if this is big, skype would be useful, possibly teamviewer:

Ok now i know a bit more about why the "slaves" disappear so often... Let's see...

I "infected" a virtual machine running on VMware, and its working fine until restarted the virtual machine, when restarts, all going well until finish the windows loading screen, after that got a black screen just with the cursor....

That's why i'm thinking when the ppl got that black screen, they need to format the pc....

I dont know if this issue its about the version i used (DC 5.2), or maybe because the packet that i found around there was corrupted.

Tell me if anyone knows something similar, or happened before.

Thx

Click the hyperlinked Darkcomet in the original post. Darkcomet for free, paid for Blackshades. If you are short on funds, get a crypter instead of a RAT.

It's either a Honeypot or his Internet is simply too slow to show his desktop. No way to fix it. (Other than reducing the quality of the screenshots.

Don't bind it. It increases the detection. People often have private spreading methods. That's how they get large amounts.

Make sure that the port is being listened to (IE, your RAT is open and listening to the port) else it will show it's closed even if it's open. Also, make sure Windows Firewall is off.

Your AV is quarantining Darkcomet. Turn it off. If you don't have one, it's likely Windows Defender. To turn it off, do the following: Start -> (Enter into search box) Windows Defender -> Open -> Tools -> Options -> Administrator -> Use this program? -> Uncheck -> Apply. -> Enjoy.

A crypter is a software that encrypts, obfuscates, and moves stuff around in an executable while not corrupting it and allowing for its specific function. You need one to get past AVs.

Is your firewall and windows defender both turned off? It's best to do so.

What kind of RAT Should i buy or install?

I want the following features:

- Keylogger (That logs login forms etc).
- File Manager.
- Very stable rat, so i can have a 5 clients.
- Web Cam / Voice recorder.
- Screen capture PC.
- Not sure if it's possible Melt into PC So it can't get deleted?

I've used NO-IP Before with darkcomet, i had like 10 infected people on it.. However, i lost all my RAT's one day (Somehow).. Maybe my No-ip IP Changed.

Should i use DarkComet, or is there some paid rats that are better?

Are you testing it on yourself? If so, it's likely not working due to NAT Loopback. Follow instructions for testing in Anubis in the original post.

I have also disabled both AV and Firewall on my laptop and router and Firewall (no AV on XP machine)

Darkcomet is the standard of RATs. (In my honest opinion.) However, if you are looking for a new one and are willing to pay, look into Netwire/Blackshades. Be warned, Netwire doesn't have the "Fun" features that Netwire has, so it might not be to your liking.

You seem to be patient and professional in explaining your tut, on RATs

i like to know does Dark Comet work better on Abslute crypta or DataProtector should these crypters be tested on scanner? does it make the server weak or weaken the rats?

Free cyrpters are not FUD , Best crypters are PAID for Ones..

different pl with diff opinion , what's right thing 2 do?

vouch for Lakai, very gud tut, step by step tuts infinity1 Wrote:Hi, I got darkcomet, I am wondering which crypter I can buy or get for free that is FUD or Near FUD at this current moment, anyone could help me out?

I do not recommend any specific crypter for a variety of reasons.

infinity1 Wrote:Can you perhaps try to help me find a free one? I am using iCryptex Public version and it gets killed by many AV's Don't use it, then. Get a private one. Unfortunately, free crypters on HF have gone downhill for a very long time.

This is due to NAT Loopback. This is a limitation of your router and cannot be fixed. Follow the instructions in the original post to test with Anubis.

The port MUST be listened to. Make sure your RAT is open and listening to the port, else your port will show as closed even if it's open. Also make sure that Windows Firewall is set to OFF. It can often block the ping from canyouseeme.org.

p4python Wrote:yesterday my port was working but today i check on canyouseeme it says connection refused and connection time out any guide to setup port.

Make sure the RAT is open and your port is being listened to. Windows Firewall is OFF and any other AVs you may have are also OFF.

KatochiHF Wrote:I'm using DarkComet and I have about 3 people ratted and they disappeared.

Q1. Do people disappear when PC turned off and reappear when PC turned on?

Q2. It says 2 of my ratted people in the "user logs" - did they get rid of the rat?

Q1. It depends. Is it their PC? No, unless you didn't add startup to your stub. Your PC? No.

Q2: Their AV could've removed it, or they could've removed it themselves. Their PC also could be off.

RAT: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Remote_administration_software#RAT_trojan_horses

Crypter: It basically encrypts your RAT stub to make sure that AVs do NOT detect it when it is run. RATs, by themselves, are detected to shit. It's necessary.

It could be any number of things. Based on what you told me, it's likely his antivirus catching and quarantining it.

Unfortunately, I cannot aid you in JDBs. They are simply too tricky. Try getting support from the people you bought it from. Also, this tutorial may help with the black screening problem:

I cannot aid you in this. Check if your port is open at "Canyouseeme.org" Darkcomet has UPNP, so it might've already opened it.

Use the DNS "127.0.0.1" in order to infect yourself. Anubis for testing your No-ip.

What IS possible is buyin a vpn that allows u to portforward and us that in stead of the needed router :)

DarkComet

Im testing my rat and it only seems to work when my computer with DC on it IS NOT connected to my VPN and when the computer that is infected IS connected to the VPN. Im assuming this is because my VPN ([censored]) doesnt allow port-forwarding, is that a correct assumption? Also, why is my infected computer unable to connect unless it is through a VPN? Would crypting solve this? (I havent bought a decent VPN service or crypter because i wanted to test it first) Thanks.

Yes, I have teamviewer.
