Quote:Images Copyright

All stock photo images in the design package are royalty free, however they may be licensed for website publication only. If you require a license for other publications, it will require a further license fee to the original author or current agents. In some circumstances you may be required to pay license fees to use these images on your projects.

<http://www.psdstation.com/terms.php>

According to PSDStation which is where packs #1 and #2 are from, you're free to use them only on website publication and they are royalty free.

But in all honesty, if you're wanting to use this in any other matter, change up the design, improve on it, and you technically shouldn't have an issue. That's my 2 cents on this.
