Websync - January 28, 2013, 10:51 am

Im fucking sick of this, listen to me closely.

I - repped this member yesterday:

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=1611338>

Im not a fucking retard and ive left that -3 for a reason, he then reports my rep and get it removed. All well right?

Then the fucker creates a thread about that rep:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3213459>

+24 REP from NOTHING, from 1 thread. Are you fucking kidding me? Is this community that gullible?

This have to stop, then you dumbasses wonder why a L33T WITH OMG 1000 REP scams! Its coz you are dumb and rep a member for the most gay reason and useless to.

The people that repped him are worst than him.

Yes, iam mad.

Something should be done about this.

We will have to wait and see though.

This is very true, but a lot of people end up building respect on that rep, which leads to a lot of scamming. I'm all the way with you man. It makes perfect sense.

I agree with you, people should only rep people if they have a good reason, not just if the user makes a thread looking for attention.

That my whole point. Threads about rep should be 100% disallowed to prevent episodes like this.

And I bet my ass that the member in question WILL scam in the future, just wait and see.

You should forward that information to a staff member.

If you rep got removed there must be a good reason for it. I agree about people repping him for that thread. I think it should be disallowed to make threads like that.

If the reputation he reported was reported and deleted, do PM Judge Dredd, for clarification.

Positive - January 28, 2013, 11:01 am

Chill; it's a reputation. If you think it was removed falsely, PM Dredd.
