King of Diamonds - February 4, 2013, 10:44 am

evasi0n just released their 6.1 untethered jailbreak.

Remember to back up your iPhone/iPad/iPod before jailbreaking it. The jailbreak can be found here, and the How to/FAQ is here

Tomb Raider - February 4, 2013, 11:46 am

I have done it but you can't install any tweaks and stuff yet because Cydia's servers are on overload should blow over in a few hours I think

.swag - February 4, 2013, 11:55 am

Just jailbreaked it, everything went fine...

Nice find OP

King of Diamonds - February 4, 2013, 12:30 pm

Always Sad - February 4, 2013, 12:41 pm

Yeah can't really install any tweaks, getting errors because of the traffic Cydia is getting.

Alright sweet, now I can update my girlfriends phone to the latest jailbreak. I have a question though if anyone could answer.

When you update a jailbroken phone what is the exact process.

Would i update it like a normal iphone through itunes and then jailbreak it after the update?

Or is there a certain process I should do?

Yes you are. Go head over to evasi0n.com download the correct software for your OS and follow the on screen instructions. Just back it up in the event something goes wrong which most likely wont happen.

Go for it. A jailbroken iDevice is much better than a stock one.

Sorry about the stupid questions I haven't used iOS myself since it was back in iOS 2.whatever (and never updated for that matter since i only had a ipod touch and it was back with the tether jailbreaks.)

If your device is jailbroken and you upgrade you will lose all your jailbroken tweaks and such.

No idea about the law, why does it matter. Do the people of HF agree to any laws? other than the ones saying we cant do anything to federal peoples

Quote:b. If you happen to have followed our guide for older A4 based devices for tethered jailbreak iOS 6.1, the good news is that you can easily convert your tethered jailbreak into untethered by installing "evasi0n 6.x Untether" from Cydia. So if I don't want to update to iOS 6.1, I could just download and install 'evasi0n 6.x Untether' from Cydia which will provide me with an untethered jailbreak?

Not saying I'm not going to update or anything, just wondering.

As long as your running iOS 6 you should be able to use that.

The jailbreak is superb on the iTouch 4g. Already pirated a few paid apps from the app store using App Cake.

Ok i would jailbreak my Iphone but it's already acting crappy since it was the Iphone 4 when it was first release and I have dropped it so many times that I lost count. But honestly if I had an ipod I would.
