Vouch, been following this as well.

Seems as if this customer has not contacted anyone related to our service and now demands a refund after several weeks use.

Seems like another money grabber to me. Not unlike most other services of this nature, refunds are rarely if ever allowed/given. Our ToS stipulates that refunds are not allowed except under extreme circumstances to be left at our discretion. Im not seeing a case of this here.

That's hilarious.

A friend of Delta gives a vouch about something he knows nothing about.

I have a lifetime membership.

The stresser is garbage.

He isnt just a friend, he is my partner in grim.

Lets be real though there is absolutely no reason for a chargeback other than the fact you want money to spend on other things you yourself admitted it and said you were satisfied

I vouch for this report Crimes owes me a paper and is ignoring me..

Fatality` - February 11, 2013, 2:25 pm

Eh no, im actually his api manager and partner. I oversee a wide range of actions related to his service.

After a look at the tickets Its quite aparent whats going on here.

You would like a refund but have enjoyed the service, or is that not what you yourself said in the ticket to support i posted above?

This member seems sketchy to me too.

He has other scam reports on him (look his rep).

And he just seems like a very sketchy person.

Had conversations with him over PM regarding his Laptop sale.
