You should put some Google AdSense on that website. If there's no ads, then how are you making revenue? You couldn't be able to pay for hosting on by just stresser sales. Seriously, put up some advertisements.

Desperate for money?

Are you half retarded? We try everyday to make sure the skype resolver is functioning properly and the API's work. That money comes out of our OWN pockets, we don't beg for investments at all. If we were desperate for money we'd charge you for the skype resolver but we aren't. We have one advertisement located underneath the resolver a long with a couple of links to threads on forums. We aren't forcing you to click shit so how about you hop off.

Cyberfelix is now up currently. Sorry for maintenance.

No it fucking doesn't. It uses the Skype API to fetch the latest IP address of a Skype user.

I'll try to find a backup when I can.

PieBHP - March 5, 2013, 10:49 am

Happily we are back to #1, I put up a temporary resolver. Should be under 5 seconds per resolve.

It's showing a white screen while it is resolving, no idea what the fuck is up with that. I'll try to fix it soon.

Thanks to @Jack for all the help recently.

Fixed earlier, sorry for all the downtime.

Should be ~5 seconds/resolve.

SHOULD be working fine, just tried. :) it may have been down for a bit.

Still going strong.

:)

Thanks for the support.

Not working atm.

How long has it been down, will it come back up?
