I get an error on Paypal

Rasbora - February 23, 2013, 12:56 pm

If it's your legit paypal I would call them and ask. If not then your account is probably fucked.

Download the paypal app on your phone and send it from there.

Contacting them is your best option, paypal are really annoying for errors.

Ah fuck PayPal and its errors/limitations. Just now got this for using proxies/socks or more probably TOR:

Lost like $6.50, not gonna do anything about it but it's annoying.

So be safe with your PP, they now have gone mad about limiting accounts. It used to happen when they had actual proof of something, now they just limit you if they don't like the IP you're connecting from. Worst payment processor, always been, always will be.

P.S. This is the first US PayPal I've registered, it could be they limit US more than others as well.

I installed the app for mobile phone and it worked
