Thread: A sub forum in the Runescape section for trading in game items.

Vinnie - February 24, 2013, 10:07 am

This suggestion is in regards to having a trading section in the Runescape sub section for Runescape only trading. I've been told several times to post in the virtual items and the traders topic section.

They allow this in the Minecraft section so why are members getting banned for posting in game trades in the Runescape section? The staff seem to not understand the reasons, they seem to be assuming that these members are trading these virtual items for real currency.

The virtual section is for buying and selling virtual items for real life currencies and the traders topic section isn't for trading virtual items, the virtual items section gets Runescape attention but only for selling Runescape items or gold for real life currencies and the traders topic section has no Runescape related threads, especially trading threads.

Here are a couple of examples of threads, these guys all get banned for posting outside of the marketplace for trading in game items.

Here is an example.

I've seen a lot of these threads recently and all because Runescape2007 has been released, it's a new economy and people are mass trading, we'd like to have a trading section, this would decrease the amount of members being banned for stupid reason "posting a sales thread outside of the marketplace".

I'll post all updated threads of the members wanting to trade Runescape items here such as this.

I had a thread made asking why these members are getting but it was pretty much ignored.

This is the whole point of the thread, you didn't read it.

It would be for trading ingame items for in game items or gp. Its a good idea Vinnie.

Morchid - February 24, 2013, 10:35 am

This would be a great edition to the Runescape section.
I hope Omni takes this into consideration.

Previous thread with lots of support: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3278653>

Wopy - February 24, 2013, 11:56 am

Vouch for these then i can sell me RUnescape items for a RUnescape cash.

The Fro - February 24, 2013, 11:57 am

1:1 trade screen means no scams, so no need for deal disputes, thus, it doesn't really belong in the marketplace, as it's part of the RS gameplay.

Vinnie - February 24, 2013, 12:17 pm

We can't even trade our items on Hackforums, it's depressing :/

QAZ??x - February 24, 2013, 12:19 pm

Support for this idea! I never knew users were getting banned for it though!

SaintValentine - February 24, 2013, 12:20 pm

this would be great like a market section

LijpeMD - February 24, 2013, 12:20 pm

A HUGE vouch for this. I really want this to come.

The Fro - February 24, 2013, 2:07 pm

Every single thread is about RS.

Mut? - February 24, 2013, 2:32 pm

Vouch, I agree, we do need one of these.

Stev - February 24, 2013, 2:33 pm

I agree to this, great idea Vinnie.

?ades - February 24, 2013, 2:34 pm

Should be allowed to trade ingame cash and ingame items there imo, I agree.

There all in game gold or items that's being sold for real life currencies like PayPal or LR. The suggestions for in game trading to be approved or a sub trading section in the Runescape section.

Not really. The point I was trying to make was that, by implementing your suggestion, we would remove the RS goods <-> RS goods from that section, making it easier for people to find what they want. If they want to trade RS goods, visit the RS section, if they want to buy RS goods, visit the virtual goods marketplace.

lakiluki - February 24, 2013, 2:44 pm

Just came here to suggest this. Would be better if they put a subsection.

Like I said those items being sold in those threads are going for real money currencies. I'll answer all of those threads you've highlighted with picture proof.

This guy is TRADING his gold not SELLING it for real life currencies, this should be allowed in the Runescape section but he's been forced to put it there, this can be done in the virtual section and should be allowed in the Runescape section as well.

This guy is doing the same as the member posted above.

This member is in my Teamspeak and I pointed him towards the virtual items section to buy it there until this suggestion is answered, he was buying the 100 trout for IRL money.

This guy is either selling or trading his items for in game money.

This member is selling his in game items for in real life currencies, PP or LR. This belongs in that section as he is not trading it for in game items.

This memebr is also selling in game items for IRL currencies, once again it belongs in that section as he is not trading the items for in game items.

This member was forced to trade his in game gold for in game gold in the virtual item section because this suggestion hasn't been implemented yet.

Conclusion

All of the members that are selling in game gold for IRL currencies have posted there sales threads in the right section, the members whom are looking to trade in game items for other in game items have been forced to post there to avoid getting banned. It's really simple, if not a sub forum in the Runescape section for in game trading at least allow us to trade in game items NOT buy and sell for IRL currencies in the Runescape section.

This needs to be done...

Raitz - February 24, 2013, 5:20 pm

I have a thread in the Virtual Game Items section as well where Im doing the same thing as above.

Grumpy - February 24, 2013, 5:24 pm

Virtual Game Items is the correct section for buying and selling of in-game items.

Omniscient - February 25, 2013, 12:39 pm

We have a section:

Virtual Game Items

If the section we have doesn't have a lot of traffic for RS trade items then what's the point of giving it a separate section?

But to satisfy you. I've added a forum redirect. That should make it clear you can use that section to buy,sell, trade virtual game items.

That is perfect! Thank you very much at least we can have members actually redirected to that section for trading instead of trading virtual items. You're a star. ?
