Cool little logo you have there. Maybe make your website standout. Get a custom theme or something. There are tons of forums, but why do they wan't to choose yours? You need to make them choose your site.

With that type of attitude you won't be very successful with your forum.

Well, considering there are only two forums that exist with that theme, it's pretty much Custom. There's already been money put into it, no need to spend money on it again until it gets to the point that theme is used plenty elsewhere.

It's not really the attitude. It was more of an irritation. ?

Looks like a pretty neat site with some active members and decent posts. I am not a big fan of the theme however.

What are some things you don't like? Just curious, you can also have a blue version of the theme.

@Sawedoff, good work. Seems you've done alot of hard work in it, as it's growing rapidly. Great logo and awesome template.

Overall: 8/10

Best of luck.
