- Stealthily logs all keystrokes inputted by the target
- Ability to send logs to ANY SMTP-capable email provider
- Ability to add itself to startup
- Ability to disable the TaskManager so the process cannot be killed
- Editable default settings to reduce installation time
- Can be installed off a USB Memory stick or directly copied to the target's harddrive

Don't wait! Get your copy of this AMAZING Keylogger now!

All digital upgrades are FREE upon request. All you need to do is email cruceo@tgforums.com with your valid paypal email address which you used to pay and ask for the newest digital version. However, if you would like a CD upgrade, it will cost $1.99 for shipping, processing, and handling!

Unfortunately, we cannot extend that return period any longer as the software can be replicated and it would put our business out of order. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause and hope you enjoy using TGEYE.

If you have any questions, comments, or concerns, please feel free to ask them here or via the email provided above and I will do my best to answer them in a timely fashion.

Program updated to v1.1.0

Note to all users who purchased one of the previous versions: If you would like a digital copy upgrade, simply email cruceo@tgforums.com from the paypal email address you paid with and the new version will be sent via email within 24 hours. If you would like a new CD copy, you will need to email the above email and request a CD upgrade (NOTE: it will cost $1.99 for shipping, processing, and handling).

The newest version has not only been graphically updated, but the entire functionality has been redone as well. Users can now also choose the install directory of the program. Plus, specific vaccines have been added in conjunction to the everything-vaccine included, which will allow the removal of specific functions of the keylogger without removing the entire program!

TGForums - March 28, 2010, 11:23 pm

Program updated once again.

Major notes:

- File encryption for maximized security

Minor notes:

- Several small errors that were reported have been fixed in relation to saving settings
- GUI completely redone again (I'm sorry, I didn't like it, so I redid it and now it looks nice lol)
- Opening message added to explain saving from a CD

Once again, to all those who purchased the previous versions, if you would like an upgrade, email cruceo@tgforums.com. All digital upgrades are free, but CD upgrades cost $1.99 for shipping, processing, and handling!

I'm also in the process of updating the program to be capable of a lot more than it is. I don't want to give the details just yet, but check back in less than a week and I should have released some news, if not the program, by then!

Hope everyone likes what I've done!

Enjoy~

TGForums - March 30, 2010, 5:34 pm

Program updated:

Major notes:

- No longer requires the DLL to be used in order to run; so now it runs completely as a standalone app
- Code optimized to increase performance and reduce any errors found
- Fixed all startup errors and issues

Minor notes:

- All reported errors have been fixed
- All possible exceptions, to my knowledge, have been handled individually to reduce possible errors

To all users who purchased this, I'm sure you understand the upgrade process by now so I don't believe I need to repeat it again. If you don't understand it, either ask or please read one of my many previous comments about upgrading.

Thankyou~

TGForums - March 31, 2010, 9:05 am

Upcoming updates:

- Ability to be USB spread
- Ability to disable anti-virus software

If you would like to suggest another feature, you may do so either here, PM, or email. If the idea is good enough and I can handle coding it, then you might just get yourself a free copy lol

Anyways...There's more to come, this is just what I'm focusing on for the next release version

TGForums - March 31, 2010, 10:22 pm

Update from TG:

Source, Reseller Rights and Support is now available for only $99!

If you are interested in this offer, please PM me here or email me at cruceo@tgforums.com to discuss the process.

-Thank you!

TGForums - March 31, 2010, 11:54 pm

TGEYE is 97% FUD at the moment. It is only seen as "Suspicious.Insight" and not actually detected as a keylogger. Which basically means it's pretty much completely FUD at the moment. Will be even more so when I'm done with the next couple updates.

Just an update on the status of the upgrade:

Automatic spreading via USB has been successfully implemented. We're currently just running some tests now to catch any possible errors before we release it shortly.

Also... Anyone wanna tell me what's going on with my sig and why I apparently only have 24 hours to live? lol

TGForums - April 1, 2010, 4:25 pm

Spreading to USB now works without a problem in non-W7 (Windows 7) systems. At the moment, this update is only available upon request as it is not a full version update, but it is still working and stable. So if anyone who bought this would like to have this feature without waiting for the next update, please feel free to email me and I will send you a digital copy.

The program has no problem moving files to the USB drive, but in Windows 7 the autorun capabilities are handled much differently, and therefore it can not be auto-start without some kind of new method (which I am going to keep working on). In Windows XP, Vista, etc., it has no problem auto-spreading to and from the USB drive.

If anyone has any questions about this, please feel free to ask!

Updated to v1.1.8 which includes some startup fixes that were reported and increased functionality upon user request. Also, I've decided to release a demo version of this program which only includes the GUI setup program so that users who would like to see this have the ability to try out the GUI before they buy. The actual keylogger will not be included in the demo, as that would be preposterous :p

TGForums - April 3, 2010, 10:08 pm

Updated again:

This revision includes the ability to disable RegEdit in Windows as well as an extra vaccine to remove the disabled RegEdit and re-enable it. The GUI was obviously updated to accommodate for the changes as well. Plus, a list was added that includes several commonly-used email providers and the SMTP servers/ports associated with them.

All users should know the upgrade routine by now :p

The website, HERE, has been fully updated with all of the information regarding this program and purchasing instructions. The program is also in the process of another update which I am planning to release later this day. I'm also working on a way for all buyers to automatically receive the updated files when I release a new revision~

TGForums - April 5, 2010, 3:13 pm

Program updated to v1.1.9

Users can now rename the keylogger program file during installation to increase the stealth capabilities of the program.

Users can now update their installation settings without having to completely reinstall TGEYE GUI was redone to fit the new needs

The demo project has been updated as well

Hello, everyone! I have an offer for 2 or 3 people here right now that some of you would like.

I'm looking for 2 or 3 people to test out this product for me, exclusively for HF members.

Here are some of the things I would ask from those who would like to test for me:

1. A review of the product. It doesn't have to be long or too detailed, but I would like a simple rating, maybe some suggestions and areas for improvement.
2. If possible, a vouch that this is a legitimate program and not a scam.
3. If you come across any bugs or errors, I would really appreciate being told about them and details about your system and the steps you took so that I can fix it as soon as possible. This would be unlikely though, as I'm pretty sure I've handle almost, if not all, errors and bugs that this program had in the original revisions. But, I am still human and it's very possible that I missed something.

If anyone would be interested in testing this out, you can simply ask here in this thread, PM me, or email me at cruceo@tgforums.com.

If you're helpful and supportive, and not just using this to get a free program, then I would be more than happy to give those who helped me free upgrades of this program (like buying members) and give them the same high-quality support all my customers receive.

So let me know if you're interested~

TGForums - April 7, 2010, 7:16 am

So no one wants to pretty much get a free copy and just review it for me?

TGForums - April 8, 2010, 10:33 am

I'm happy to announce the latest update to TGEYE which is v1.2.0!

What's new:

1. The program will automatically check for updates every time the program is started. If it finds that it is not the newest version, it will download and install the newest version of the program from our remote server (with the same settings) and then start the new revision.
2. When the program is opened, if it finds that it is not in the directory you chose when choosing the settings, it will automatically move a copy of itself to the correct directory and then start it.

All details are on the site, HERE.

TGForums - April 9, 2010, 9:11 am

Program updated again!

v1.2.1:

1. TGEYE can now monitor changes in the clipboard and will automatically add those changes to the log files!
2. Whenever TGEYE is installed or installs itself, it will automatically create (or modify existing) a hidden directory and add the files to that directory!
3. Whenever TGEYE is started on a computer, it will send an instant log-file via email that alerts about the startup of the program.
4. TGEYE now prevents itself from running multiple instances. It checks on startup, and if it sees another one is running, it will automatically close itself and let the other one continue running!

Overall, this is a pretty nice revision to TGEYE and definitely adds to its value!

TGForums - April 11, 2010, 1:07 pm

If anyone who buys this doesn't get their purchase within 15 minutes, please email me at cruceo@tgforums.com and I will get it to you ASAP. (Apr 24, 2010 09:47 AM)51cent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) TG how does I make it remote install? Wut files do I send to another comp?

I'm planning on making this a bit simpler very shortly, but for the moment this is how it's done.

To have it remote install, you need to first install it on your computer with the correct settings.

Once it is installed, go to the installation directory and copy the files: TGEYE.exe (or whatever you renamed it to) and init.txt

All you need to do for the remote install is send the TGEYE.exe and init.txt (it will NOT work without the init file) to the user and the program will automatically be installed with those settings on that computer. Then it will continue to update automatically as time passes.

51cent - April 24, 2010, 3:49 pm

So be completely honest, I don't have an answer to that question; but I could work on implementing a way to merge it in the installation so there wouldn't need to be a binding. I can't promise anything, but I can look into it. In the meantime I would try it on yourself to see if it works.

Great news!

TGEYE Keylogger was just updated to v1.2.3!!!

This update includes a multitude of new features and functional improvements!!!

Here are some details:

1. TGEYE can now send logs to an FTP server of your choice (server address, username, and password is required).
2. The GUI has been changed around to a much more sleek design that is more organized and easy to navigate.
3. The "Test Email" button has been moved to the SMTP Settings page.
4. A "Test FTP" button has been added to the FTP Settings page.
5. Both sending of an email or sending to an FTP server can be enabled/disabled in the setup.
6. The auto-upgrader has been edited to maintain the integrity of the settings and prevent errors.
7. TGEYE can also save the log files to text documents without having to upload to an FTP server.

Sounds like a great update, huh?

Well here's what TGEYE now looks like:

[img]http://tgforums.com/images/TGEYESS2.jpg[/img]

Cool, eh?

You can view all of the details HERE.

But it only lasts for one single day! If you would like to continue using TGEYE, you will need to pay for the full version. To do so, you can visit HERE and Digital Versions start as low as $4.99!

TGForums - April 29, 2010, 5:48 pm

TGEYE was just updated to v1.2.4 as a purely functionality-related update. The automatic upgrader has been fixed, along with a fix to the "Update Settings" button, and should no longer cause the programs to malfunction.

It is currently set to read and upgrade from the previous versions settings. This unfortunately means that if any versions before the most recent tries to upgrade, it MAY cause the program to malfunction. If this happens, simply email cruceo@tgforums.com and the latest version will be emailed back to you within 24 hours.

IE. It can upgrade from v1.2.3 to v1.2.4 without problem, but upgrading from v1.2.2 to v1.2.4 may have issues due to the way the upgrader handles the settings. This will be corrected in future releases.

Sweet, I'm glad it's workin well for you =)

PS. Another version update is going to be released very shortly; just testing some things on other machines and adding what I can.

Right now, I managed to incorporate the DLL's code directly into the program, so TGEYE is no longer merged with a DLL and will be able to be bound to other programs without error (untested and will not be tested as it is considered malicious, but you can try it with the trial version when I release the update shortly).

It also has the ability to expire within a certain amount of days per-computer it is installed on. Meaning, for example, you could have TGEYE run for only 30 days and then remove itself, etc.

TGForums - May 5, 2010, 10:09 pm

TGEYE has just received a MAJOR update!

1. TGEYE no longer requires the merged DLL (TGKB.dll) to run, as it has now been hardcoded into the application!

2. Users can now set an expiration date for the program! Meaning that you can choose to have TGEYE automatically remove itself from a computer after the desired number of days! This feature is done on a per-computer basis, so each computer will have a certain number of active days.

3. TGEYE now checks for an internet connection before continuing the startup. If no connection is found, it will go into a repetitive sequence that checks for an internet connection every minute until one is found. This completely eliminates any possible room for error when TGEYE attempts to start up!

Great update, huh?!

You can also get a CD copy for $6.99 or both for $7.99

very good work! there is no even similar software in the internet ...

The last released demo version is still undetected by AV ... I have tried in 3 machines, and whenever I stick my flash drive it copies itself and sends reports to the mentioned email address. It is a good keylogger for this price! it has all options that could be in a keylogger ... GREAT WORK!

The long-awaited upgrade to v2 is finally here!

TGEYE v2 is a completely re-vamped version of its predecessor with loads of new and improved features including, but not limited to:

1. Major security updates
2. TGEYE is now created by the user at runtime to increase the security of the settings and personal information, make remote installation easier, and aid several other features of the program
3. TGEYE can now capture screen shots at a pre-determined interval
4. All reported errors in the previous versions have been fixed
5. The executable icon of the Keylogger can now be set at installation time
6. Greatly increased stability

And much, much more!

You will have to see it for yourself to believe it....Or you could just use the v2 trial that is completely free and offers a full 24 hours of testing so you can make sure you get EXACTLY what you want! The trial version is available for download at:

More details can be found at <http://tgforums.com/TGEYE.php>

Hope you all enjoy~

Great job. I ve just tried it and everything works perfect ... the new feature screenshots as well without any AV detections or windows errors. But I think it must be adjusted to capture screen only per click and when you hit ENTER, otherwise it saves screenshots with big sizes and will have problems to send reports with bigger sizes ...

Thanks for the suggestion. I'm going to try and implement a method to reduce capture quality and specify picture times

I actually decided yesterday to take the advice of my friend and sell the source code with strict terms and conditions of purchase.

You can read about the details for purchasing the source code at:

<http://tgforums.com/TGEYESource.php>

TGEYE is very precious to me though, so I am taking good care to make sure nothing bad happens to our software.
