Playing with balls is fun, especially when they are rainbow glowing balls :)

The text placement seems really funky, and a couple of the edges of the balls are weird, but overall, it's pretty good :D

font is shit

no offence just my opinion

other than that the balls reflections and lighting effects are really cool

i also agree with Eminent about the placement of the font

I just threw the text in there last minuet to make a preview image. That's why its not in the 10sec animation.

I think the color of the text was a little hard to pick out at first look. The placement was, as Eminent said, kinda odd too. I really like it overall though.

All you did was use an overused intro template and put your name it in.

CodeRedHF - March 16, 2013, 7:38 pm

If you're trying to say that I downloaded this template, I'm sorry to tell you that you're wrong. I created it all from scratch, yes I know it's a basic thing to do. I was simply just having some fun and figured I'd post it here. Everyone but you who's posted has seemed to like it, other then the text. Which was a last minuet addition to the image and for the video thumbnail.

TIP - If you're working with reflections and curved objects, always set AA/Anti-Aliasing to Best because in your work, there's a lot of rough edges.

Also, GI is not really good for animation unless if you use its' preset for animation because there will be lots of stuttering.

I prefer using falloffs in lights. Very controllable and very easy to render.

Anyways, it's not really that rainbowish for me but I like what you did to the spheres. :]
