SuicideTheet - March 18, 2013, 6:19 pm

Hello guys. Today I Was Receiving Some Help From Europe On A Stealer. So I Check Out His Profile And His Reputation And All, He Seems Like A Pretty Legit Guy. So He Gets On My TeamViewer And He Shows Me His Tools And His Progress He Has Made With Them. He Links Me To Them Spoiler \(Click to View\)

So I Accept Them And We Continue. Then He Paste His Direct Link To The File Named " C24.exe" Which At The Time I Thought It Was Fishy To Start With Then He Claims Its The Bin For The Stealer. So I Accept. Then Things Get Really Fishy When He Links Me To His JDB. I Say, " JDB Much" ? He Says. " Not Really." I Do Not Have Photos Of These. So I Get The Files. I Run The Binary File From The Direct Download..And As You Expect. I Get An Error. He Sends Me Another Bin Through Skype. And The Program Works Delayed For A Bit But It Worked. I Believe He Infected Me For This Reason And This Reason Only (Forgive Me If I'm Wrong) On My OkPay Account I Get This Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Now Notice The IP Address Stated In The Email That Requested Access To The Account. When I Resolve Europe's IP Look What We Get Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Be Aware Of This Member.

I Will Be More Than Happy To Remove This If He Can Prove He Is Innocent.

Looks like a very legitimate report. I was considering purchasing his JDB service but I don't think I'll be doing any business with him in the future.

Europe - March 19, 2013, 3:21 am

Why would i be infecting you... I offered to help you, you can check it out yourself -_-

Also, i told you to run it all in sandboxie, so how can you be infected?

And btw, i can prove i'm innocent :)

Do you still have the infected file ? if yes pass it on to me

See, where you fucked up was when you decided to login to a stolen payment processer account with your real IP address and no type of anonymity protection. Although what unjust said was irrelevant to this, I still think its funny. Your gonna get caught if you don't mask up before accessing your stolen accounts, lmao.

Proxima - March 24, 2013, 12:13 pm

I usually tend to stay clear from this sort of drama, however, I fail to see why telling him to run an infected file in Sandboxie constitutes you as being innocent in any relevancy. You attempted to gain unwanted access to his personal account via a file he received from you. If it was indeed accidental, you should have handled it professionally. If it weren't for the security systems put in place, you would have possibly had the potential to cripple him financially in a very real way.

I wouldn't want to see you banned, but stop acting like you're innocent. Because it clearly doesn't appear so.
