This is sorta a messy post, but it gives you a basic idea of a unique feature we have.

There's a Reverse SOCKS5, you can use it to use a computer's IP Address without NAT sections.

Screenshots, obviously with censored IPs...

Not that I promote any blackhat activity, but this can be used to do ALOT of things.

More feature requests are being taken, as long as the user has ideas to give us.

Is the built in crypter FUD or UD?

The way the in-built crypter works is different from others, you can easily re-crypt this.
Although, I'll add a option to disable it completely by tonight since it was requested.

This is actually a great idea.

I remember a project called "ControlME" it had the ability to either create your stub encrypted or you could build a cryptable stub.

So yea, I personally think there should be an option to either use the encryption or not.

The 50 USD is a lifetime purchase.

dotConnect is coded in C#, which means Net framework dependencies.

Net framework comes with Windows update, so nowadays every Windows machine will be compatible with it.

I just passed by to point out that your sock5 trick is the same used by ultrasurf which is well known for having been battle tested by years of localized blocking attempts by network administrators from all around the world.

In other words grats to the author because first, this rat will pierce through the sturdier of firewalls, and second, because I myself have failed to replicate what ultrasurf did lol

Nice all it working now i got nice support!

But i have some tipps what u can do better:

- Counter by connections, where u see how much vics u have and maybe a count of the countrys.
- Bug by sort of anything, sort by country or hardware however, will end in a bug and it wont work.
- better overview for file recover.

I hope update will come fast or i will use a public rat, 100 times better atm.

I find the idea from this rat very nice but it is to buggy atm, but ok it's an beta. Hope it will be optimized.

Ohreally? I've never experienced that your clients disconnect by using Remote Desktop. I have had some problems with this RAT but Assault fixed them in ASAP, note: The problem was on my side, not on the RAT's side. And the password recovery option works just fine for me.

BottomNotch - April 10, 2013, 11:38 pm

Seems really nice:D Might buy soon when DC can no longer do the job for me.

Alinium - April 11, 2013, 9:57 am

Really nice guy and completely honest, not a customer yet but will try for sure when mic is supported.

#Enigma - April 11, 2013, 5:24 pm

Vouch for dotConnect.

Extremely easy to use.

Very stable.

Received my copy very fast and have had very good support with it.

What are the methods of creating the clients. What kind of files are they jar exe c etc

GriefCraftMining - April 11, 2013, 10:16 pm

Does this have dependencies? If so, what are they?

.NET 2.0, 95% of the world has this though -- so it isn't really an issue.

Yes, Net framework 2.0 dependency.

Almost every Windows computer has this nowadays though.

You mean the output extension? It comes out as a "exe"

Yolo Swaggins - April 12, 2013, 3:26 am

Can you get a custom PIN grabber for a decent price? If so PM me

Actually PM me, I can probably arrange this for you.

pioricio23 - April 12, 2013, 4:26 am

HI!!

I'm interested on buying a RAT, a private (like this one, I'm tired of trying crypters and stuff) but I'm wondering which one should I buy... it needs to be FUD on first scan, heuristic and wile ruining (of course) and has a good file manager (cause I want to download file from the remote computer to mine) it also needs to be able to run the webcam without remotes knowing and screenshots (with good fps), if it does not need any dependency better but if it only needs net framework no problem...

The price also matters I've seen Imminent Monitor for 25$ this one for 50$ and some others... which one does you, sincerely recommend??

oh, and if has the possibility to bind with a jpg file or a word file better, the connection can't "die" by using a feature :D I've a doubt is possyble to change the output file from .exe to .docx or .jpg??? :D

CoLDarkness - April 12, 2013, 10:46 am

Vouch for this.

E V O is trustable from what can i say. :) Feel free to buy this from him!

Enzo090665 - April 12, 2013, 12:02 pm

I'd like to try this.. But I'm a newbie, don't even know where to start! =(I'm willing to pay though

Abdulious - April 12, 2013, 4:10 pm

It's a really good rat. Pretty FUD as well, all working features and runs flawlessly without any crashes or anything. Vouch :)

Lil Benadryl - April 12, 2013, 5:28 pm

This seems like a great deal considering it has both the RAT, and a crypter! I have one question though; Do you know how many FPS you get for desktop remote view/control, and also the webcam view/control feature? If not could you maybe test it? Thanks in advance I most likely will buy this RAT if the speeds are good enough.

The FPS depends on you and the remote computer.

We're not going to lie to you and say we have something that is giving you 2000fps.

Thanks for being honest! I can test it out when I purchase it for you :D. I have to get like 5 more dollars though :/.

MonkeyInASuit - April 14, 2013, 6:56 am looks nice. whats the size of the stub?

wait is the stub output crypted

you are obviously not going to continue the rat for ever so when you stop updating it the output will still be crypted and i thought (you cannot crypt a crypted file)

so therefore it will be useless because it will have many detections

just stating this for future reference

I'm not an official "supported", I guess you could say, but what you just wrote makes no sense.

Ofcourse he is not going to continue this project forever, every project dies sometime, and when he stops updating it the output will ofcourse not be FUD.

Also, you have an option to not crypt the output so if you have a crypter you can crypt the stub...

Wooker - April 14, 2013, 4:16 pm remote desktop crashes the remote client anyhow. ill waiting for you so please come at skype asap :)

great RAT anywas, totally worth buying it.
very friendly guys and top support

vouch vouch vouch

HaxUnitsRs - April 14, 2013, 9:06 pm

Yeah EVO has helped me with many hacking softwares including Unknown Logger, I vouch that this is a good RAT.

nikr123 - April 15, 2013, 3:07 am

I vouch for this product. Just bought it and I <3 it :)

Nocturnal Fantasy - April 15, 2013, 4:47 am

Very clean and efficient looking program that works well; I can vouch for him. :-)

dexter13 - April 16, 2013, 10:42 am

Seems good, hope fully i might get it

E V O - April 16, 2013, 1:48 pm

I'm online and selling.

Contact me if you're interested!

?Schock - May 19, 2013, 7:34 am might give it a try next month ur still selling this right?
