Thread: [Ghost writing service \[Homework, E-books, Articles, Blog posts, Forum posts, ect\]](#)

Hello all,

First of all I'd like to start by saying thanks to every last one of you who has taken the time to look at my thread. It's clear that by being here that you're requiring some form of writing services, and I'm happy to tell you that you've found the right place! It doesn't matter if you're good at English or not, because I can take what you say, or take your work, and make it into a piece that even Shakespeare would be proud of (that's meant to be a joke, I'm bad, I know). So, allow me to explain what a 'Ghost writing service' is!

Ghost writing is whereby you pay someone to write for you, be it homework, blog posts, anything! That's the beauty of a ghost writer, we can write about pretty much anything on any platform. So you may be thinking to yourself, "what's the point in hiring a ghost writer?". Well, think of it this way, perhaps you're in the PPD market, or you're trying to make it big on AdSense. People are not going to download your file, or click your ads unless you have high-quality content. By hiring me I can guarantee that your work will be of a higher-quality than your previous works, or else your money back!

So, let's get down to what I can do, before discussing price:

Homework - This is quite simple. I can do pretty much any homework that's focused on things learnt in school from the age of 16 and under. Anything over that can be discussed.

Blogs - Blogs are the new way people are dominating the AdSense and PPD markets. I can write blogs about anything, so if you've got a unique niche I can help represent it to your target audience in the best possible fashion.

Ebooks - Have you got an idea for the next big HF e-book, but you're struggling to write your idea down on paper? I can help. By simply sharing your method with me I'll take it and write it down so that you can sell it to the masses!

Pretty much anything you can think of - That's right! If it's something that needs writing the chances are I can do it, so feel free to get in contact with me!

Along with all the writing skills included above, I will also format the text so that it's appropriate for the medium you're looking to broadcast across. This means if you're hiring me to write an e-book, I'll format it and make it as visually appealing as possible, including images & logos should you desire.

So, now comes the tricky bit, price. This is highly dependent on the desired length and complexity of your text. As a general rule of thumb, anything I already know about will be cheaper. If I need to conduct research in order to produce the content (for example blogs or homework that I don't currently have an interest or any knowledge of), it will cost more.

The payment method is very simple. For a majority of members I will request a 50% up-front payment that is non-refundable unless I believe my work is not up to standard. This means that if I present you with my finished work and you're not happy, you don't have to pay me the other 50%. I currently accept Paypal & BTC.

If you wish to go directly into purchasing please send me a PM or add me on Skype. I will offer discounts to 'HQ' members and may (in some circumstances) accept 100% of the payment after I have completed the work.
