Chromatic Aberration

Examples of this effect.

This effect is being applied to the text.

You can apply it to anything.

So first off by opening photoshop of course.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Now, insert your picture and create a duplicate layer.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Go to Blending options for the duplicate layer.

And in Channels deselect G and B

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Now just move the layer a bit to the right. :)

THERE YOU GO

It isn't different for text.

I have tried myself.

Yeah, I'm not sure what he meant.
Did he mean like motion blur or something? :$

How do you do it then?
I would love to know more than one way to do it

Assailant - April 7, 2013, 3:45 am

Didn't know this.... Great tutorial man :3

Ritual - April 8, 2013, 6:48 am

Thanks! You could also play around and rotate that layer a bit, looks nice :D
